AGED WOMAN HIT BY AUTOMOBILE NOW IN HOSPITAL

Mrs. Ed Erickson, 51, Run Down on Street Crossing; Becomes Confused and Runs Into Car

EVJEN TAKES HER TO HOSPITAL

Witnesses Exonerate the Driver from Blame Declaring Car Was Moving at Moderate Speed

Mrs. Ed Erickson, 224 North Seventh street, aged 51, is in La Crosse hospital today suffering from severe bruises sustained yesterday afternoon, when she was run down at the corner of Seventh and State streets by an automobile driven by Miss Avonelle Fuller and Henry O. Evjen, 1616 King street.

According to Patrolman Herman Rick, Mrs. Erickson was struck by the Evjen car, which was going at a moderate speed, when she dodged in front of another car driven by Miss Schmidt, saloonkeeper, 201 Pearl street. Albert G. Schultz, proprietor of the Burlington hotel, was riding in the car with Schmidt.

Schultz, Schmidt and Patrolman Rick all agree that the Schmidt car stopped short on the crossing when Mrs. Erickson got confused and ran in front of the car. Just as she was dodging this machine, they say, the Evjen car approached and, not seeing it, she ran directly in front of it, when it was just abreast of the Schmidt car. She was run down, although the occupants of the car and bystanders declare the Evjen car was running slowly.

Back Severely Wrenched Schultz and Schmidt drove directly to the police station and reported the accident. Young Evjen, with the assistance of bystanders, cared for the injured woman. At the La Crosse hospital this afternoon it is said she will recover. Her back was severely wrenched, but it is not thought she is seriously injured.

Henry O. Evjen, who with Miss Avonelle M. Fuller, 230 South Seventh street, was in the car which struck Mrs. Erickson, told of the accident today.

"I had been teaching Miss Fuller how to run the machine," he said, "and we were coming back after a trip out toward the fair grounds. We came down Main street and Miss Fuller was running the car slowly, as a beginner will. I should think we were going seven or eight miles an hour."

"We turned north on Seventh street. Just at the corner of State street, as we came to the crossing, we saw another car coming west down State street at high speed. A house on the corner had obstructed our view before."

Woman Lets Go of Wheel "Miss Fuller screamed and let go of the wheel. I reached over and twisted it suddenly to the right, turning the car instinctively in that direction. I could not reach the brakes from where I was sitting, and unless I had turned we should have been hit by the other machine."

"Neither Miss Fuller nor I saw Mrs. Erickson until we were upon her. She had been standing on the crossing waiting for the other car to pass. I shut off the motor, but couldn't reach the brake and was unable to stop the machine before we hit her. The other car didn't stop and I could not tell who was in it."

"As soon as I could afterward I stopped and ran back to where Mrs. Erickson was lying. I carried her to the car, but I could not lift her in, so I called to Chief Bradford, who was passing, and he helped her into the car. B. F. Keeler was nearby, and I asked him to get into the car and go with us to the La Crosse hospital. I drove to the hospital as fast as I dared, and helped put Mrs. Erickson on a cot. Then I called Dr. Maurer."

Saw Only One Car Chief Bradford of the fire department declared today that when the woman was picked up there was no other car in sight than the Evjen car. Had there been another car, he said, he would have seen it. He was of the impression that the Schmidt car drove right on without stopping.

MRS. WILLARD HAPPY AS MRS. JOHNSON FACES BLEAK END OF ROMANCE WHICH WASTED LIFE

BY CECILIA WRIGHT KEITH (Written for the United Press.)

HAVANA, April 6.—When a woman witnesses the greatest disaster that can be—the fall of a man who for years was a leader in his profession—her thoughts naturally go to the woman most vitally interested.

So when Jack Johnson entered the ring at Miramar yesterday, confident and assertive, I turned to the ringside boxes and saw the white girl who had bound up her life with that of the black—exiled by her own family, by her friends and by her country.

She is a pretty girl, perhaps a little swarthy because of the boulevards of Paris and the avenues of Buenos Aires, but nevertheless she is a woman, with the feelings of a woman. And in her life's crisis, her own sex must reach out the hand of understanding to her.

I hold no brief for her actions in the past. I am only telling of her looks as her partner in life went into the conflict that was to change him from champion of the world to one of the heroes of the past.

Smiled With Jack Every turn in the battle was followed by this 22-year-old girl from the west. She wore the same smile that spread over the face of Johnson. Both took the battle as a jest. To them it was only a misguided white man added to the ring record of Jack.

Then as the rounds wore on, every trick in the amazing category of the world's champion was tried, but in vain. From the smile of confidence to the strained look of worry was the transition of only a moment. (Continued on Page Six)

Mrs. Willard Happy LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 5.—

The future was bright today for a young mother in Los Angeles, whose four health, bright faced children are also the children of Jess Willard, who won back for the white race the heavyweight prize fighting championship of the world.

"My husband's wonderful victory has just one big meaning for me," said Mrs. Willard in an interview for the United Press today, "and that is our little ones will have the good things we've always longed to give them, and they can be educated as well as the children of the wealthiest, and can live in surroundings that will help them grow into strong and useful men and women."

Mrs. Willard spent a happy, sleepless and excited night in the little rose-covered bungalow in Hollywood, a suburb, where she and the children have lived while Jess was training for the fight with Johnson.

"Do you know the first thought that must have flashed through Jess' mind when he knew he had won the championship?" she asked. "I do. It was of little Jess."

Here she hugged her son of sixteen months. "Look at him," said the mother fondly. "He's a champion himself right now, and I guess he and big Jess ought to be proud of each other."

Mrs. Willard was showered with congratulations by her neighbors last night and today. But she prized most highly a "love cable" from Jess, announcing his victory over the negro champion and sending love to little Jess, the other children and Mrs. Willard.

FREE BRIDGE FIGHT CARRIED ON TODAY BY MEN IN AUTOS

Retail Merchants Working Hard to Get 50 Votes Against Mississippi Toll Gate

Fifteen automobiles are being commandeered by members of the Merchants' and Jobbers' association, running from one polling place to another in the stringent effort to carry the cause.

Scores of automobile trucks and commercial vehicles bearing signs "Vote for a free bridge for La Crosse," are advertising the campaign today.

Practically every ward in La Crosse is being canvassed by the members, who pledged themselves to work at the meeting last night.

That La Crosse will have a free bridge when the votes are counted tonight was the unanimous opinion of members of the La Crosse Retail Merchants' association, those who participated in the campaign of the free bridge movement in La Crosse, and others, gathered at the annual business meeting of the association at Linker hall last night.

Business plans for the year to come and the election of officers were cast aside in making plans for the big fight being waged today for a free bridge. The prevailing sentiment among those who made short addresses was to boost today for a free bridge for the good of the people of La Crosse; placing their welfare ahead of the welfare of even the business interests of the city.

One speaker said if fifty votes could be changed in favor of making the bridge free today, that would carry the day. Another speaker warned those present never to become discouraged with the failure to make the bridge free, but to wage another fight and another in new efforts to make it free, every time it lost.

Members of the association partook of a supper, served at 6 o'clock. Due to other engagements, many members were not present.

Harry Taggart is Speaker Opening the speech making of the evening, Harry Taggart, secretary, criticized the lack of interest in movements for their own welfare, which he said existed with some La Crosse businessmen in movements similar to the free bridge campaign. "The business man can create encouragement among the entire people," said Mr. Taggart. "He is oft times the barometer by which the people determine whether their community is having 'good' or 'bad' times. The businessmen of La Crosse must establish organization and keep organized for all time."

"There are men who have fought for the free bridge, when it will not greatly benefit them financially, and yet there are others who have not lifted their hands to help the fight, whom a free bridge would enrich. In 1912, the free bridge vote lost by just 94 votes. Just a little effort now will win the battle."

Doherty Boosts Bridge "Don't fight for the free bridge because it will benefit the association of which you are members," said Attorney John Doherty, one of the ardent supporters in the recent speaking campaign, "but go out to win for the people of La Crosse. I am confident that when the votes are counted the free bridge will be a certainty."

"I believe you are about to be delivered of a yoke which has been a barrier to you for years," said Attorney James Thompson. "I feel more than certain that with the closing of the polls tomorrow night, the people of La Crosse will no longer have bars across the only entrance to their city from Minnesota."

"I am of the opinion," he continued, "that we will find out our Minnesota neighbors are 'white' people, and that if these very men who are here tonight trying their level best to make the bridge free, were in two years to try and make it a toll bridge again, the people who voted against it tomorrow, would think you were insane."

Just 50 Votes Needed "It will take just fifty votes to make this thing go the way it ought to go," said N. M. Scott, president of the Scott-Rose company. If the men here tonight can change the votes of fifty people, or persuade fifty disinterested parties to vote for the free bridge, it will be free tomorrow night."

C. J. Felber, Adam Kroner, D. W. MacWillie and many of the others made short addresses on the subject. Cook Book Discussed The matter of authorizing support of a community cook book planned by local women was left to the directors, following a strong recommendation of the work by Secretary Taggart.

GIRL—FIGHT—HOSPITAL MILWAUKEE, April 6.—Anton Prostek, 22, and William Marciniak, 21, are in the hospital as the result of a quarrel over a pretty girl. While returning from a party, Prostek was shot in the leg and Marciniak was beaten over the head.

They said their assailants were men with whom they quarreled at the party.

BRITISH LABOR PARTY DEMANDS PEACE AND FLAYS FOREIGN MINISTER

NORWICH, England, April 6.—English labor unions Monday demanded that the government make peace at the earliest possible moment. Resolutions were passed at the convention of the independent labor party to this effect, and also criticizing Sir Edward Grey for his alliance with France, and pointing out the danger to England from Russian ascendancy, which is being promoted by the present conflict, it is asserted.

War Office News of Fighting

PARIS

PARIS, April 6.—A series of important engagements is now being fought in the woods between the Meuse and the Moselle, east and southeast of Verdun, according to dispatches from the front today. In every engagement in this region the French are on the offensive, and driving home their campaign to pierce the enemy's line extending to St. Mihiel.

Along the Meuse heights, the French have made distinct progress, according to the official communique from the war office this afternoon. Southwest of Vauquois, in the regions south of Varennes, the French also are on the offensive.

BERLIN

BERLIN, via Wireless to London, April 6.—In the twenty mile wooded strip between the Meuse and Moselle rivers, the French have launched the strongest offensive movement along the western battle front since their vigorous attacks in the Champagne region six weeks ago.

Tenacious struggles are now going on northeast, east and southeast of Verdun and west of Pont-a-Mousson, the war office announced this afternoon. Except at one point—on the east edge of the Meuse heights—the enemy have been repulsed in every onslaught. There the French gained a temporary advantage, but were ejected from an advanced section of German trenches in last night's fighting.

LONDON

LONDON, April 6.—British troops operating near La Bassée have scored victories in the recent fighting that show marked superiority over the enemy and hence are of great military value," according to an official report from French. British commander, received here today.

On the morning of April 3, British troops exploded mines in the German trenches destroying 100 yards of earthworks.

BITTER CAMPAIGN ENDS IN FIGHTS

Polls Scenes of Battle as Chicago Municipal Election Is Settled Today

CHICAGO, April 6.—After what has been the most spectacular and bitterly contested municipal campaign in Chicago's history 700,000 or more voters trooped to the polls today to name a mayor, city treasurer, one municipal judge, and thirty-eight aldermen.

Robert M. Sweitzer, present county clerk, is the democratic majority candidate; William Hale Thompson, millionaire real estate owner, is the choice of republicans.

A total of 736,106 Chicagoans were eligible to vote today. Of these, 456,815 were men and 282,291 women.

The conclusion of the campaign was marked by roorback tactics that have not been used since Chicago was a wild and woolly frontier town. Eleventh hour appeals to racial and religious prejudice were sent out by some one—each side blamed the other—in the form of thousands of handbills and circulars.

Sweitzer followers blamed the Thompson camp for distributing circulars which said: "The election of a German-American will be a fitting answer to the defamers of the Fatherland. Chicago has a greater German population than any city in the world except Berlin and Vienna, and the German-Americans should set aside every other consideration and vote as a unit for Robert M. Sweitzer."

The Thompson men had circulated the bills to prejudice other nationalities against Sweitzer. Charges of fraud and reports of strong arm work of paid gunmen to intimidate voters came early. Election Judge Scully was hurried out of bed at 6:30 a. m. to investigate alleged frauds in the Twenty-second ward. Workers for different factions were reported to have entered booths with voters.

In the Twentieth ward, Progressive Committeeman Samuel Heller, asked for police aid when his brother was beaten terribly by gangsters who escaped in an automobile.

CHICAGO BOARD VOTES

CHICAGO, April 6.—The elections made today a legal holiday and the board of trade was closed.

U. S. WILL REQUIRE DAMAGES FOR LOSS OF HER COMMERCE

Answer to British Order in Council Says That No Reprisals Will Be Attempted

FRANKNESS OF CLAUSE SURPRISES

Passage Referring to German Blockade Held Close to Expression of Opinion on Germany

POINT OUT THE DISCRIMINATION

Answer Objects to Blockade by Allies Which Leaves Scandinavian Nations Exempt

WASHINGTON, April 6.—The United States' reply to the British order in council was made public last night by Secretary of State Bryan. The following are salient features of the note:

First—There will be no reprisal for the illegal acts charged against Great Britain. The United States will content itself with demanding damages for the commission of wrongs against American commerce.

Second—The United States says that it cannot suppose that Great Britain would seek to justify an unlawful course of conduct toward neutrals on her part on the ground that she was forced to it by illegal acts of her enemy. If the actions of Germany, which are forcing the British to reprisals, are found to be "in disregard of the principles of war sanctioned by enlightened nations," says the note, "this government does not for a moment suppose that his majesty's government would wish the same taint to attach to their own actions."

Third—The Scandinavian and Danish countries can carry on trade with German Baltic ports; therefore, if the same rights are denied to the United States it would be a discrimination, because "the essential element of blockade is that it shall bear with equal severity upon all neutrals."

Fourth—The United States reasserts the right of freedom of trade, except in contraband goods, between itself and all neutral ports.

Fifth—it is suggested to Great Britain that even if a cordon of blockading vessels "be extended across the approaches to any neighboring neutral port or country," there should still be allowed "free admission and exit to all lawful traffic with neutral ports through the blockading cordon."

Such traffic, it is held by the United States, should include all outward bound cargoes from the neutral country and all inward bound cargoes to the neutral country "except contraband in transit to the enemy."

U. S. Urges Dispatch

Sixth—The attention of Great Britain is called to the promise that instructions will be given to her fleet and customs officials to act with the utmost dispatch and consideration for neutrals compatible with the object of establishing the blockade. The United States hopes that the effort of the exercise of such officials of their discretion and powers will be to modify in practical application those provisions of the order in council which, if strictly enforced, would violate neutral rights and interrupt legitimate trade. The United States assumed, therefore, that when it is known to Great Britain that American vessels are not carrying contraband of war "or goods destined to or proceeding from ports within the belligerent territory" such vessels will be not be interfered with.

Considerable significance was attached to the clause which practically enunciated the American attitude toward Germany.

"If the course pursued by the present enemies of Great Britain," the note read, "should prove to be in fact tainted by illegality and disregard of the principles of war, sanctioned by enlightened nations, it cannot be supposed that his majesty's government would wish the same taint to attach to their own actions or would cite such illegal acts as in any sense or degree a justification for similar practices on their part."

Diplomats here regarded this paragraph as the most unreserved and uncompromising utterance the state department has yet made concerning the submarine blockade of England. It is generally held to be dangerously close to an expression of official opinion of Germany's war policy.

Another significant feature of the communication is held to be a clause which practically recognizes a belligerent's right to impose a blockade of the entire ocean, in so far as enemy ships are concerned, as a condition brought about by "the great changes which have occurred in the conditions and means of naval warfare."

Diplomatic and international law specialists are convinced that the British government will not permit American pressure to cause a relaxation in the stringency of the present blockade but it is also held that Great Britain probably will make all financial amends for interference with neutral trade that conditions seem to justify.

HEAVY VOTE CAST BENTLEY LEADS IN LABOR WARDS

Judges of Ward Politics Declare That Every Available Vote Is Being Brought In

Comment about the polling places in the wards of the city, where the heaviest voting is going on, the consensus of street corner political wizar's and the general reports in the political corners of the city hall late today, are to the effect that A. A. Bentley will be elected mayor.

Ori J. Sorensen is running strong in the First, Eleventh and certain north side wards, but Bentley is said to be carrying solidly the Second, Eighth, Twelfth, Seventeenth and Eighteenth and to be running with general strength in a majority of the precincts.

Perhaps one of the heaviest votes ever cast in a mayoralty election in La Crosse is being polled today. Political savants versed in ward politics, string pulling and all of the arts which bring the obscure voter to exercise his right of franchise, declared at noon today that practically every qualified voter in the city is casting his ballot. It is predicted that 5,000 votes will be cast.

Two enthusiastic mass meetings, each boasting of several hundred voters, were addressed by Candidate Bentley last night in the campaign windup. Both were in disputed parts of the city, but there was great enthusiasm. One was at Concordia hall and the other at Centennial hall in the southern part of the city. Mayor Sorensen also addressed a number of gatherings.

The ward contests in the Fourteenth, Eighteenth and other wards where there are aldermanic contests are adding to the excitement. In the country districts the excitement is based on the election of town chairmen and other officers, together with supervisors.

SUBMARINE F-4 SLIPS INTO DEPTHS

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Difficulties in raising the sunken submarine F-4 from Honolulu harbor are multiplying, the navy department admitted today. Latest accounts indicated that the craft had slipped from the 45 foot ledge on which it lay, into very deep water.

The department did not believe much progress would be made before arrival of its experts, who sailed from San Francisco today on the cruiser Maryland.

PROBE NEUTRALITY VIOLATION.

NEW YORK, April 6.—Grand jury probe into a mass of evidence of violation of neutrality by ships taking supplies to the British patrol fleet off the Atlantic coast, will probably be begun within the next week. Collector of the Port Malone indicated today that his evidence was complete and would be submitted to the district attorney.

SHELL SMYRNA AGAIN.

ATHENS, April 6.—British battle-ships have resumed the bombardment of Smyrna, according to private messages received here today.

BLAME FOR FALABA CASE PUT ON BRITISH

WASHINGTON, April 6.—The German embassy issued a statement today blaming England for the destruction by a German submarine of the British steamship Falaba, on which the American thresher lost his life.

"The German government," it was stated, "regrets the sacrifice of human lives, but both British ships and neutral passengers were warned urgently and in time not to cross the war zone."

"The responsibility, therefore, rests with the British government, which, contrary to international law, waged commercial war against Germany, and, contrary to international law, has caused merchant ships to offer armed resistance."

The embassy also asked the state department today to investigate the case of the German steamship Odenwald, which was stopped when it attempted a dash without clearance papers from San Juan harbor, Porto Rico, and against which proceedings are pending for confiscation, as a penalty for the commander's alleged violation of American neutrality. The Odenwald's captain, the embassy asserted, had asked for clearance papers to Hamburg.

It was asserted, however, that he waited three days without receiving them and then concluded that he was justified in attempting a dash.

MRS. EDSON FOUND POLICE SEEK MAN

Old Woman Who Disappeared After Simulating Robbery Located by the Police with Neighbors

Mrs. Fannie Edson, 70, 1436 Market street, who disappeared Sunday, following a police investigation into an alleged robbery of her home, which later developed to be a turmoil created by the woman herself in order to frighten her daughter, was located again today by the police.

She had steadfastly refused to live in the same home with her daughter since the trouble of Saturday night, and today the police learned she had been sleeping at various homes in the neighborhood.

Police are now on the trail of a strange man in the case who has been escorting the old woman around. It is said that she was taken to one of her lodging places and left by the tall stranger, who engaged accommodations for her for the night.

Relief was felt when the woman was located today as it was feared she might have done herself harm.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

The Path Through the Green Woods.

"I MUST tell you kiddies tonight about the path through the green woods," said daddy, "and how Betty used to love to follow it and about the many dear little woods creatures she saw on her journeys. Betty was a little girl who loved the outdoors in the summer, and she loved particularly the path through the green woods. It was just a small bit of woods, so her mamma used to let her follow the path alone. "It was nice and cool and green through the woods, and the shadows lay soft and comfy at the foot of the great trees, and the sunshine streamed through the branches just dimly, making a mellow radiance. And the path wound in and out among the trees, and it was brown and springy, and along its edges there grew pretty ferns and some wild flowers which Betty used to love to pluck and fetch home to her mamma. "But it was the little live creatures that she met in the woods that Betty was most interested in. She had some funny experiences too. "One day she was walking along the path, and she heard from somewhere above her head something say, 'Who, who?' And she looked up in the branches of a great oak tree and saw two yellow eyes staring at her, and she was not in the least frightened, for she knew it was only an owl, a funny little brown owl that says 'Who' just like it was talking to you. "Another time she heard something coming with a queer little thud through the brush, and the next minute out hopped a rabbit upon the brown path. Betty stopped still and looked at him, and he sat right up on his haunches and looked at her. And his funny little nose went twitch, twitch, and his long ears were pricked up in the most inquiring way. And his eyes were big and round, and he looked at Betty as if he had never seen her before, which, of course, he hadn't. And by and by off he went hopping into the woods again. "But I think Betty loved the squirrels she met in the woods better than anything else. They would chatter to her as she tripped along, and she would look up and smile to see their bright and beady eyes, which looked real saucy, and their waving, bushy tails, and they would scamper playfully along the limbs of the trees. "The squirrels seemed to like Betty and have confidence in her. She learned to bring good things for them to eat, and then they became very friendly. They would run almost up to her when she was feeding them, and one of them became so tame before the summer was over that he would eat right out of her hand. "Don't you think Betty was lucky to have that path through the woods?"

ing of having taken a wife, was because he had a fad.

Every man has a fad, even to the fad of picking up stray pins on the sidewalk, but what all men are ready to deny is that they have one. Some other fellow is invariably the guilty party. Thus, while a score of persons said that John Blanchard had a fad, he said to himself that he was the only man in a thousand who steered clear of them.

As a youth, Master Blanchard was inclined to serious thought; one of the most serious was the preservation of the present for the future. He realized that all things, even to nations, must decay and leave no more behind them than the cave-dwellers. There must come a time, maybe a hundred thousand years hence, when a new nation would long to know how the American lived in his day and date. They would go hunting around for relics and souvenirs, and they would find remains of skyscrapers, subways, elevated roads. Here and there they would uncover a poem written by a Yankee school-marm—now and then a speech delivered by a senator; but from those things could any future historian make out the real life of the people?

And John Blanchard went to making a collection. It was such a collection as would enable the future historian to make out our every-day life, even down to the brand of cigars the men smoked, and the name of the bars of soap the women bought for the laundries.

John Blanchard's name was to be saved to posterity. The first move he made was to write out his history from birth to date, and then begin a diary which should only close with his death. He bought books to be inclosed in iron boxes; he filed away da' papers; he preserved magazines; he gathered postage stamps and coins.

John Blanchard was the son of wealthy parents. When he attained his majority he had more wealth awaiting him. He could and he did erect a building and stuff it from basement to garret with his collections. He was still at it when he made a new acquaintance that was bound to bring about changes in his life.

John Blanchard might have been the only male faddist in his town that carried the idea to an extreme, and it never occurred to him that a female might enter the lists against him. One did, however. It was Miss Myra Day, a young woman who had dwelt in this vale of tears almost as long as he had, although her fad wasn't born so early.

Miss Myra realized that the day must come when the last trust, the last grafter and the last American must go hence and leave the ruins of his cities to be pawed over by relic hunters of a later race and to be the hooting place of big-eyed owls, and that she had a duty to do. Those

Mrs. Tillia Conard Tells Remarkable Experience After Suffering For Months

Mrs. Tillia Conard lives at 307 Morgan Street, Peoria. She suffered from stomach trouble for months. Nothing seemed to give relief. One day she visited a sister who resides in Bloomington, and upon urgent advice consented to try one bottle of May's Wonderful Remedy. This, in her own words, is the story of her experience—read it.

For a number of months I suffered terribly with pains in my stomach; would fill with gas and belch for an hour at a time. I had pains in my side which at times I thought would kill me. I was under the doctor's care for four months, but got no relief at all. One day while in Bloomington my sister persuaded me to take a bottle of your remedy. To say the results were wonderful would be putting it mildly. After the first dose my pain left me, my appetite improved, my skin became clear again and I felt like a new woman. May's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Eat as much and whatever you like. No more distress after eating, pressure of gas in the stomach and around the heart. Get one bottle of your druggist now and try it on an absolute guarantee. If not satisfactory money will be returned.

people who were to come after would be curious about our bird life. They would wonder if our robins had teeth like a grizzly bear's, if our bluebirds carried off and devoured babies, if the woodpecker emerged from his cave at midnight to revel in human gore.

It was her mission to leave a leaf of history behind for their benefit. She, as well as Mr. Blanchard, had wealth and could indulge herself. She began collecting the eggs or birds and acquiring stuffed specimens. In this she spent thousands of dollars. She was thorough in her work, too. She could speak and write three different languages, and she never lacked up and laid an egg or a stuffed specimen away without writing on three different cards: "This is the egg of a quail," or "This is the quail himself," or whatever egg or bird it was.

When Miss Myra had accumulated enough specimens to load several trucks she turned to insects. The race that was to come would ask what kind of horseflies, hornets and fleas the last Americans did business with. The collection of the insect woman would answer any question. She could imagine the investigator of 100,000 years hence inquiring of himself:

"Now, then, I wonder if the blamed old hornet is a new thing with us, or if they had him in the long ago?" And then her collection would be discovered. "I'll be hanged if the pesky vermin isn't right here, as big as life, and the horsefly is in the next stall with him," the investigator would exclaim.

Miss Myra bought insects of small boys, and she went afield for them personally. The farmer didn't pay much attention to the boy roaming over the fields in search of the grasshopper, but when it came to a woman racing up and down with a net in her hand and her eyes bulging out he would stop his plow to stare.

"Good lands, but 'spose I had married that thing instead of Mirandy?" Mr. John Blanchard heard of a farmer who had a valuable collection of manuscripts that would give history a fair insight into our ways of doing business in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. It was a farmer who never paid a debt unless he was about to be burned at the stake, and

BUILDING SEASON IS A BIG ONE IN PRAIRIE DU CHIEN

City Plans to Build Many New Homes During the Summer; Old Ones Re-built and Modernized

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, Wis., April 6. (Special.)—The building season is beginning early in Prairie du Chien and bids fair to be a busy one. Among the many who will erect new homes this summer are David Slightam, G. J. Callahan and Lawrence Kleser, who will build on Minnesota street, north of St. John's Catholic church.

Henry Potratz and Fred Hammerly will have homes built on Church street opposite St. Mary's academy. The Garvey houses occupied by W. B. Tarrt and John Lawless are to be enlarged and modernized and a new double house to be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Tarrt and Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Munson will be built on the Garvey property opposite the court house.

Daughter Dies
The sympathy of a large circle of friends and acquaintances goes out to Mr. and Mrs. Jay Atkinson, whose little daughter, Beatrice, died Friday night after a short illness.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at the home, Rev. F. A. Trautman officiating.

Local and Personal
William Mueller of this city submitted to a serious operation Saturday at a La Crosse hospital, his condition being now reported as favorable. Mrs. Mueller is in La Crosse with her husband.

The ferry between Prairie du Chien and McGregor made its first regular trip for the season on Sunday.

The Ladies' Guild of Trinity Episcopal church will meet Wednesday afternoon at the Guild hall.

Mrs. Alexander Athey leaves this week to visit her daughter, Miss Katharine, in New York.

W. A. Hazeltine of Mazomanie was in the city Friday.

Mrs. R. W. Fallis visited at Guttenberg, Iowa, the last of the week. J. H. Savage left Sunday morning for St. Paul after a month's visit at the family home here.

the valuable manuscripts were the dunning letters he had received.

You may call it a coincidence. You may call it luck. You may say it was the hand of Providence. Whatever it was it brought them, it introduced them. It was a bond between them. It made a Miss Myra agree that the dunning letters were the cap-sheaf of the collection, and it made Mr. Blanchard volunteer to go with her and help capture a few crickets.

The farmer refused a very liberal offer for his manuscripts, on the grounds that if he had money his creditors would pursue him afresh; and when he came to half understand the business of the collectors he was filled with contempt.

"That feller orter be splittin' wood and that woman orter be siclin' apples to dry!" was the way he looked at it, and when they came to ask where the largest and choicest crickets could be found he pointed to a bush in the pasture and replied: "You'll find some lively ones down there."

The farmer's wife came out to him at the plow and asked: "Josiah, what does that woman want?"

"Why, she's one of 'em." "Does she want to buy them dunning letters, or the old letters you wrote me afore we were married?" "No. She's after bugs."

"Good lands!" "I couldn't make out exactly what she wanted of them, but when they asked about crickets I sent 'em over in the pasture."

"Are they goin' to fry the grease out of 'em for rheumatism?" "Dunno. I couldn't understand half their big talk."

And as the two collectors walked slowly across the field they warmed toward each other, as was natural. Of the millions of people in the United States they alone, very likely, were the only ones working for those who were to be coveting around when the Falls of Niagara were worn out like an old washboard.

Two lawyers would have been in a wrangle in five minutes as to who should have the crickets after they had been captured. Two editors would have dragged politics into it and called each other liars.

Two poets would have wrangled about the moonlight and dubbed each jinglers. But two collectors! Their souls recognized each other at once and clasped hands, as it were.

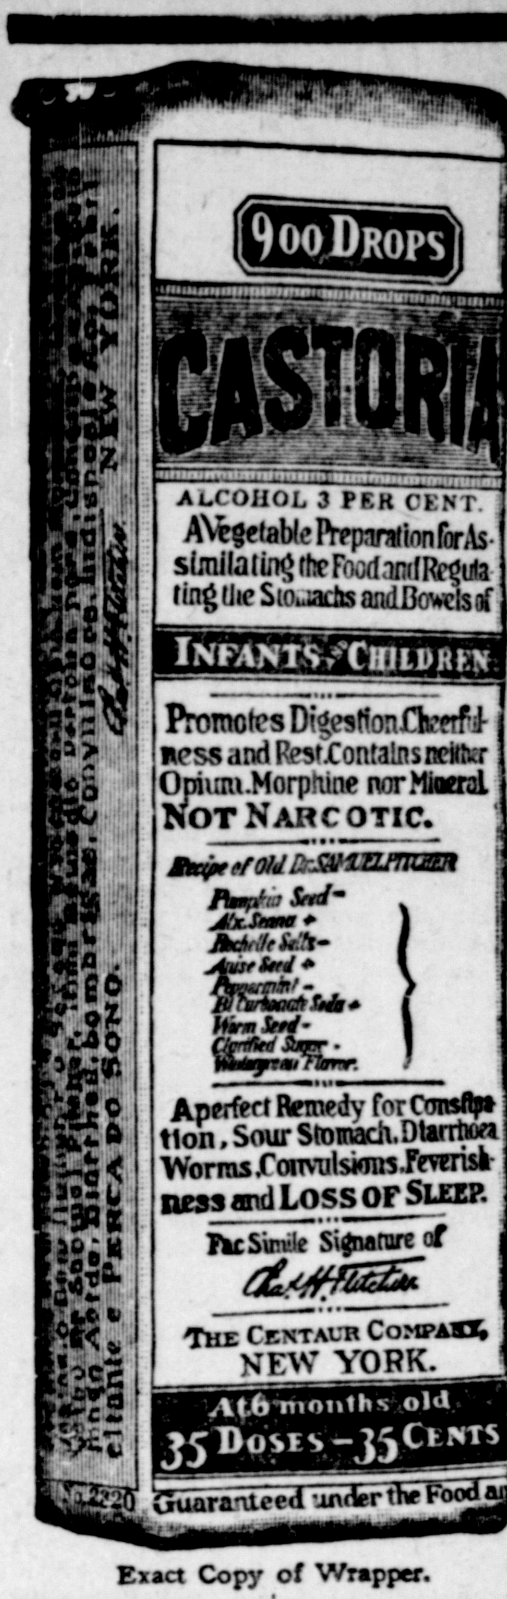

Mr. Blanchard and Miss Day were so long on their way to cricket roost that the farmer growled to himself: "If I was after an insect I'd hurry up and get him by a hind leg and then sit on the fence and do my talking."

But the collectors reached the spot at last. It was a space of matted grass, with a bush growing in the midst of it.

There were no crickets to be seen.

THE BLACK INSOLENCE

When the flash came that Jack Johnson had been knocked out by Jess Willard, two hundred people crowded before The TRIBUNE'S bulletin board cheered with genuine enthusiasm.

That cheer went across two continents, wherever Caucasian supremacy exists.

But the applause was not entirely inspired by race feeling, although color may have played its part. Perhaps the successful test of the white man's skill and strength was important as evidence that the intellectual peoples hold supremacy in things physical as well as mental and spiritual, a thought which credits the victor with a degree of civilization which some will challenge.

But the thing which engendered hatred of Johnson and pleasure over his fall was the man's insolent immorality. He was a "bad egg" man whose pride it was to hold decency in British defiance, and that pandering to his own depravity was the cause of his downfall is enough. If ever a man needed a good whipping, that man was Jack Johnson, and now that he has been soundly thrashed by a white man one hopes that he may be led by the "color line" to give Sam Langford an opportunity to establish a new black hope.

The beating of Johnson was good for all the earth, but it was best for the colored people. The example of a bad hero was an evil influence upon those negroes who countenanced Johnson, but the worst phase of the situation was the insult which the pugilist represented to that large class of colored men who recognized him for a vicious libertine and held him in contempt. We believe the better element of the race aspires to a higher type of leadership than that personified in the fallen champion. His very existence, as he lived it, was a crime against his up-looking people.

Rejoicing that the "color line" will again be drawn in general, and the chief value of this fact, too, rests upon what it means to the negro race. Their elimination from a brutalizing white-man's game should tend to the development of a better type of heroes for the colored worshipper, and the race is capable of producing a higher source of inspiration. Sportsmanship should decree that the white "champ" who shall ignore the "color line" shall automatically lose the title.

Recently there was published in the TRIBUNE a synopsis of his address, fragmentary and inadequate, yet sufficient, perhaps, to indicate to today's parents the wide difference between geography as it is taught by modern methods and the name-location-and-population "Gogery" of a few years back.

To "what?" and "where?" the subject has added "why?" and "how?" We studied it as the traveling mail agent studies his map of stations in order to distribute the contents of a mail car. Now they look into the mystery of it, get its philosophy, connect related facts, learn cause and effect of production both natural and mechanical, study influences of conditions and environment upon life. New methods of teaching prepare the child for the ampler phases of Geography by teaching him by natural phenomena which he can comprehend, what formerly we sought to give him in allopatic doses of scientific terms.

It was an interesting half hour, and many men and women with grey hair sympathized with the enthusiastic remark of a business man now turned fifty, that he would like to take a course in Geography under Prof. Stickle "right now."

AN "AMUSIN' LITTLE CUSS"

The Plute uprising in the off-ends of Utah and Colorado has been peacefully settled. A gray old soldier, General Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff of the United States army, has done what scores of armed men could not effect. He went to meet the Indians, convinced them that he was their friend and that they would get a fair trial—so the lands of the Douglas mesa are quiet again. Some of the professional militarists probably feel that this is altogether undignified, but General Scott is a soldier intent on serving his country, not on fighting battles. To claim that General Scott might adjust the disorders in Europe would, however, be rash exaggeration: Europe is civilized!—Collier's Weekly.

Collier's reserves its sense of humor for its conscious witticisms. Perhaps, after the trusting aborigines have been duly executed, their survivors may appreciate the value of that distrustful "European civilization."

FIRST CATCH YOUR RABBIT

"At the end of the war, the allies will have two alternatives: They can allow the practice of submerging merchantment to become a usage recognized by the international law, or they can after trial hang the German officers responsible for initiating it, including Grand Admiral von Tirpitz."—The London Chronicle.

The advice of the cook-book's famous recipe for rabbit stew is respectfully suggested to the editor of The Chronicle:

"First catch your rabbit."

"Why did you come?"
"I recognized you—even in the distance and in these clothes. Besides, Madame Arnaud sent me."

He was looking at her again. Through the dusk she saw the white tortured suspense on the hard face. She wore a rose in the severe corsage of her dress. She took it and handed it to him.

"She sent you this—in token of remembrance."
He broke down. With his dark head buried in his arms he leaned against the wooden cross, and the sound of his hard-drawn breath was awful in the silence. She did not touch him or speak to him.

CHAPTER VIII.
Corporal Gotz Plays "Rule, Britannia."

In Sidi-ben-Abbes there is a pleasant avenue, shaded by silver birch and redolent of all the sweet perfumes of the East, where the local potentates gather in a select exclusive circle. There are no cafes, no gaudy placards pasted against the trees in the hopes of resuscitating happy memories in the minds of exiled Parisians. The idle bustle of a mixed, many-colored crowd is wholly absent. The houses are mostly modern erections, intersected here and there by an old Arabian dwelling, restored and ruined by a chaotic Latin taste. But they create an oriental impression and serve their purpose.

In the courtyard of one of these houses Colonel Destininn sat and smoked an after-tea cigarette. His kept lay on the broad balustrade beside him, and his head was thrown back in an attitude of easy contentment. A fountain bubbling up from the cool flags played a melodious accompaniment to his companion's voice, and he watched her from between half-closed eyelids, his tight mouth slightly relaxed by an amused admiration.

should have gone so far against my principles as to drink a first."
She looked up at him. The soft reflection from the low white walls around them enhanced her ethereal beauty and added the subtle glamour with which the eastern light surrounds the least and most lovely object. Very delicately she obeyed his request, the soft rich lace sleeve of her tea-gown slipping back to reveal the rounded arm and slender over-fragile wrist.

Who Can Doubt Sworn Testimony of Honest Citizens?

Some time ago I began the use of your Swamp-Root with the most remarkable results. For years I was almost a wreck and was a great sufferer. I was so bad at times I would faint away and had sinking spells, finally a new doctor was called in and he said that I had kidney trouble and gave me medicine, of which I took several bottles. I obtained some relief from this but I was getting weaker all the time; I could not sleep and suffered so much pain that my husband and children had to lift me in and out of bed. After this time two friends sent me word to try Swamp-Root, which I did, and I am glad to state that the first dose gave me great relief. After taking the third dose I was helped into bed and slept half of the night.

I took several bottles of Swamp-Root and I feel that I owe my life to this wonderful remedy. The two family doctors said that I could not live three months. I would have to be helped in and out of bed ten to twenty times every night. After taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root for two days I was entirely free from getting up and cold sleep soundly.

der a hospitable roof for twenty years."
"You must have been very lonely."
"One accustoms one's self to everything."
"Had you no one who—" She hesitated, a sudden color in her cheeks, and he leaned forward, his hands loosely interlocked between his knees, his handsome ruthless face grave and intent.

"No, I hadn't any one, Madame Arnaud."
"Not even in your own country?"
"Not even in my own country."

Her gaze faltered under his steady piercing eyes.
"What is your own country, Colonel Destininn?"
"I do not know, Madame. I have forgotten." There was a little silence in which the fountain played a silvery intermezzo, and then he went on in an altered tone. "You are the first person who has made me wish to remember."

She was looking up at him again with a studied frankness, behind which lurked something hypnotized, fascinated.
He turned carelessly from her.
"Ah, Arnaud, you there? You see, I have been breaking up the principles of years to entertain your wife. If you leave her too much alone you will find these English roses fade very quickly in this dreary place. Man, don't look as if you had seen the devil."

The young officer, hesitating on the edge of the low veranda, recovered himself with an effort.
"My Colonel—I was taken aback. I had not expected—but I am delighted and most honored. I beg of you to let me enjoy the pleasure."
"No, no, Arnaud. We see enough of each other elsewhere, and, moreover, I have a pressing engagement with three deserters from the eleventh company. Au revoir, Madame—and thank you!"

He lifted her hand to his lips, his eyes still on her face, and returning Arnaud's salute, strode across the sunlit courtyard and disappeared into the shadows. Husband and wife watched him in silence. Then Arnaud gave a short half-angry laugh.
"When the devil goes abroad it is usually to some purpose," he said.
"How did he come here?"
"I invited him."

"He had not called on you."
She shrugged her shoulders prettily.
"That was just what made me do it. I was bored and lonely, and bored lonely people are bound to do something mad."

"You are very often bored, Sylvia."
"Yes," she agreed. "But does that mean I am very often mad?"
He made no answer. He was leaning against the balustrade, his arms folded, his eyes on the ground. In his dusty soiled uniform he looked manly enough. The desert had tanned his cheeks and molded his slight frame into an appearance of wiry strength, but there was the painfully white forehead, the nervous mouth, never for an instant quite at rest, which betrayed some fundamental weakness.

At that particular moment his composed silence seemed to act irri-

Bisurated Magnesia For Stomach Troubles

In these days of almost universal indigestion, dyspepsia and other stomach trouble the recent announcement by a great specialist that pure bisurated magnesia is an almost infallible remedy for nearly all forms of stomach trouble, will come as a welcome surprise to all sufferers. A teaspoonful in a little water immediately after eating, or whenever pain is felt, neutralizes the excess acid and instantly stops the fermentation and pain. Those who use bisurated magnesia regularly for a week or two usually find that the trouble has entirely disappeared, and normal digestion is completely restored. O. T. Erhart can supply you.

tatingly on his wife's nerves. She rose and came across the balcony to where a patch of warm evening sunlight hovered caressingly over a newly cut bunch of Algerian roses. She picked them up and smelled them delicately.

"I did not notice them before," she said. "Colonel Destininn must have left them."

"No," he answered with his eyes still on his dusty boots. "I brought them."

"For me?"
"For whom else?"
"You did not give them to me."
"I forgot. I was thinking."
"Indeed! Anything that I might know?"

"It was about you." He looked up at her, his pale eyes full of moody wistfulness. "I was thinking how much can happen in a year where a woman is concerned. A year ago you would not have been bored, Sylvia. You thought then that there was no more lovely place on earth than Sidi-ben-Abbes, and that there was no other man for you than myself. Now you are restless and discontented. You hate the place and—perhaps your husband." The last words broke from him with a petulant violence. It was the irritable accusation of a man who does not believe what he is saying and expects contradiction. None came. Sylvia Arnaud's fair head was still bent over her flowers. He sprang upright, his face ashy with passion. "Do you hate me, Sylvia?" he stammered. She lifted her eyes for a moment, but not to him. In their velvety depths there were pathetic and melancholy infinitely touching.

PUBLIC DEBATE

Editor Tribune:
Please make a correction in my communication published Saturday in reply to Mr. Schlabbach. As published a sentence in the third paragraph reads, "I did not ask him to call the police." As I wrote it, and as the fact is, the sentence was, "I did ask him not to call the police." The district attorney told the truth.

TWO HELD FOR GLEEVER MURDER

Detective Chief of New York Blames Drugs for Cold-blooded Triple Killing

NEW YORK, April 6.—With two suspects under arrest, practically the whole detective force was endeavoring today to find the murderers of Otto Zinn, restaurant proprietor, and his two employees, hacked to death with cleavers.

Detective Inspector Faurot expressed belief today that a drug fiend was the murderer. One of the men under arrest, Edward Wester of Berkeley, Cal., has an injured arm in a sling. He said he was hurt with a cleaver in a fight with a ship's cook. The other, Joseph Carrol, said his head was cut with a club by an unknown man. Both are held for investigation. The bloody cleavers, a knotted handkerchief used as a mask, footprints in the snow outside the restaurant and bloody finger prints on the cafe walls and safe, which the robbers attempted to force, were other clues regarded as important.

The Soldier's Easter Song
Air: Tipperary.
Back from gory battle came a soldier Easter Day.
The streets were full of people in their Easter garments gay;
Silver bells were ringing in the steeples overhead.
The soldier he was wounded, and this is what he said:

"It's a long way to glory, it's a long way to go,
From the dim and quiet churches where the Easter lilies blow.
Good-bye to home and comfort, farewell to sweethearts dear,
It's a long, long way to glory, and my heart's right here."

When the soldier joined the colors he was full of thoughts of home. But he found among the trenches that they never spoke her name. Coming home upon a furlough with his right arm in a sling, he was strong for peace eternal when the chimes began to ring:

"It's a long way to glory, it's a long way to go,
The route is marked in crimson with the blood of friends and foe.
There's a girl I want to marry, we have waited 'most a year,
It's a long, long way to glory when my heart is here."

"I would rather have a cottage, and a garden, and a cow,
Than a V. C. on my bosom, and a laurel on my brow.
War has led me through his shambles till my soul is worn to rags;
Give us peace the wide world over, fold away the battle flags;

It's a long way to glory, it's a long way to go,
It's a long way to glory and the hardest road I know.
From the snowy Easter lilies may the dove of peace appear,
It's a long, long way to glory, for my heart's right here."

Sounds Reasonable
"Cadger has a nerve."
"Why so?"
"I threatened to sue him for that five he owes me."
"Yes."
"And he asked me to sue him for ten, and give him the other five."

FIND AGED WOMAN SLAIN

Mayor Donn Roberts and 26 Co-defendants Are Found Guilty of Conspiracy

WILL BE SENTENCED APRIL 12

Judge Anderson Sends All of 116 Defendants to Homes to Await Sentence

INDIANAPOLIS, April 6.—Mayor Donn M. Roberts of Terre Haute and the twenty-six co-defendants in the Terre Haute election corruption conspiracy trial, were today found guilty by the jury in the United States district court. The charge was that they had conspired to corrupt the election on November 3, 1914. Judge A. B. Anderson will pronounce sentence. Judge Anderson instructed the men found guilty today as well as the eighty-nine who had pleaded guilty to go to their homes and to return to court April 12, when sentences will be pronounced on all. The verdict was returned at a few minutes after ten and was not a surprise. It is considered probable that some of the twenty-seven found guilty will appeal.

TRAINMEN'S BALL IS GREAT SUCCESS

Upwards of one hundred couples last night were present at the twenty-sixth annual ball of Gateway City lodge, No. 176, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen at Linker hall.

The event, although not so largely attended as in other years, proved from the social standpoint one of the most successful ever held by the lodge. Many people from out of the city, especially from Minneapolis, St. Paul, Portage and Dubuque were in attendance.

White, red and green flags, such as are used by railroads indicative of "clear," "danger" and "go slow" were grouped throughout the hall and many colored lanterns of the same colors were used as decorations. Music for the ball was furnished by the Kreutz orchestra.

SCOUTS FOLLOW UP CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN

Every Boy to Take Charge of His Own Back Yard and Streets and Alleys Adjoining

What promises to be the most energetic cleanup campaign ever conducted in La Crosse was launched yesterday afternoon by members of Troop 1, Boy Scouts. The campaign is the first of its kind ever held on the north side. Plans for street and back yard renovation were made at the troop meeting Friday evening at the North Presbyterian church.

Work this week will be confined to each boy taking care of his own back and streets and alleys adjoining. The work is expected to keep the boys busy every night after school this week. Next week, the boys will invade other yards, with the permission of the owners, and apply the brush. From then on, until the whole north side has been covered, the boys will keep at the work. Several weeks will be needed for the work in the opinion of Troop Leader Harry Spence.

That the action of the Boy Scouts will be followed by youths not connected with the organization is expected by the backers of the movement.

The teachers of the Hamilton and Webster schools also presented them with a handsome basket of choice flowers.

DINNER AT THE STODDARD
Mr. and Mrs. John A. Bayer entertained at an elaborate dinner party last night in honor of their niece,
Miss Leona Doerflinger and her bridal party. Dinner was served in the "ordinary" with covers for ten. The decorations were beautiful and elaborate.

In the center of the table was a mound of daffodils and white roses.
The place cards were hand painted cupids wearing veils and holding prayer books. A white rose was laid beside each card except that of the bride which was designated by a corsage bouquet of bride's roses and lillies of the valley.

The color scheme was yellow which was carried out in the refresh-

TAKES FREE RIDE ON GREAT SHARK

The submarine pictures taken by the Williamson brothers in the West Indian seas, which the Casino theater will show this week, show graphically to the eyes of the spectators many queer under-sea scenes, animals, and their habits. One of the most interesting of these is the pilot fish, often known as the sucker fish, because of the powerful sucker in the back of its head. Their fins are so small and weak that swimming is a difficulty, consequently when they find a good feeding ground they stay there until it is exhausted.

When the time comes that the pilot fish must seek a new feeding ground or starve, it waits until a blue shark comes along, rises up to it and attaches itself by means of its sucker to the under side of the shark's body. It clings there, taking a long free ride till the shark crosses another good feeding ground when it drops off. It usually selects a spot under the shark's fin to attach itself to for there it can not only keep a look-out for food but is in no danger of being dislodged by any sudden and rapid turn on the part of its finny "train" or submarine "airship."

In the pictures devoted to shark-fishing and the thrilling shark-fighting this film shows several of these pilot fish stealing a free ride. One is fastened to the body of the blue shark which Ernest Williamson kills in front of the submerged photographic chamber. No combat like this has ever before been seen in any motion picture film.

CHICAGO, April 6.—Federal Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis shot his second judicial bolt at open saloons today when he ordered twenty-seven saloons under his jurisdiction closed on "God's holy Sabbath day."

"If I must run these saloons in order to conserve the assets of a defunct brewing concern," Judge Landis said, "I will not be liable to grand jury indictment for wholesale violation of the Sunday law."

A BIG FOUR REEL SHOW.

SUBMARINE OF NEW TYPE OVERTAKES AND SINKS BRITISH SHIP

LONDON, April 6.—A big submarine that dashed through a heavy sea at incredible speed torpedoed and sank the steamer Northlands off Beachy Head, in the English channel. While some of the crew, landed at Deal today, believed the attacking "untested boat" was the famous U12, others believed it was of a newer and far more powerful type.

Word of the sinking of the Northlands was received here only a short time before the crew of the Grimsby trawler Agatha was landed at Blyth, near Newcastle. The Agatha was overhauled and sunk by a submarine in the North sea after a short chase.

The Northlands ignored the first signal from the submarine, commanding her to halt. Her stokers set at work furiously and swinging in zig-zag fashion, she dashed in towards shore. A gale was rolling up high waves in the channel but in a few minutes the submarine was alongside the Northlands and signalled "Abandon your ship."

The boats were lowered and the crew was pulling away when a terrific explosion nearly broke the steamer in two.

"At the same instant," said one of the Northlands' sailors, "her whistle mysteriously broke out in a wailing death shriek that lasted until the waves engulfed her. It was devilish uncanny."

The steamer carried a cargo of iron ore and settled quickly.

Italian Ship Sunk?
ROME, April 6.—A report reached here this afternoon that the steamer Luigi Parodi, carrying a cargo of coal from Baltimore, was shelled and sunk by a German submarine. The report has not been officially confirmed.

The Luigi Parodi is an Italian steamer of 4,127 tons. Her port of registry is Genoa. She was built in 1899 and is 360 feet in length.

RUMOR SAYS SPEED WAS THIRTY MILES

Charles Boodle, engineer, and W. Goldman, fireman, on the engine that killed Albert H. Nelson, a peddler, at the Onalaska street crossing of the Northwestern railroad, testified before the inquest held yesterday in the office of Otto M. Schlachach, district attorney.

Officially, strict secrecy is maintained as to the nature of the testimony, but it was rumored today that evidence had been given to the effect that the train was moving at the rate of thirty miles an hour. The Onalaska ordinance limits speed to twelve miles an hour.

In order to hear further witnesses Coroner Tetley continued the hearing until Thursday morning at 9 o'clock. The position of freight cars on the siding, in relation to the ordinance requirements, will be investigated.

Poundness for bacon and the delights of riding a bicycle landed two men in county jail today.

Both pleaded guilty and were sentenced to forty days each in county jail.

SUTTER'S BODY IS SENT TO MADISON

Man Who Fell from Steamboat Last Fall Identified by Friends Through Marks in Clothing

The body of George ("Smiley") Sutter, once popular Madison bartender, the identity of which was made certain yesterday, was today taken to Madison following a message from Joseph Sutter, a brother.

George Sutter either jumped or fell from the top deck of a government steamer on the river November 6, 1914, just as the boat was approaching Isle La Plume to put him off. Sutter had been discharged a few hours prior.

Deck hands on the steamer put off in a boat when they heard a splash in the water, but the body was not found until Saturday, when Frank Latimore and E. W. Powell located it at a point below Genoa, Wis., in the river. Clothing on the few remaining bones furnished identity, and Captain W. A. Thompson, river engineer, sent "Captain White," who knew Sutter, to Genoa to make the identity doubly sure.

Has Friends in Madison.

Sutter gained the title of "Smiley" through a pleasant personality which won him many friends in Madison. For a long time his friends there had not heard from him, until his disappearance from the government steamer. Sutter had been discharged from the government service because he was a heavy drinker.

When prices of ostrich plumes in La Crosse dropped fifty per cent, due to the war in Europe, Dame Fashion found a way out of the difficulty of low hat prices and decreed ribbons, ribbons, ribbons.

MUSIC FESTIVAL AT THE NORMAL

Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra Will Appear April 17 and School Chorus to Sing Messiah on 19th

PLAN MATINEE FOR CHILDREN

Famous Soloists Will Appear in Leading Parts of Handel's Great Oratorio

Plans have just been completed for a music festival to be held in the normal auditorium April 17 and 19. It is hoped that this will be the first of a series of annual festivals which will be anticipated with keen interest by the music loving people of our city. The festival this year will consist of two concerts by the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, Emil Oberhoffer, conductor, and the singing of Handel's Messiah by the Normal school Choral society of two hundred voices under the direction of Mr. Cotton.

The orchestra is so well known that there can be little doubt of its appeal to La Crosse people. The personnel of the organization is even higher this year than before, several of the old St. Paul orchestra men having gone over to Mr. Oberhoffer's organization. The matinee concert will be of special interest to children as well as grown-ups and the evening concert will be of the regular symphony type. The soloists this year are Mme. Marie Sundelius, soprano, of Boston, and Mr. Albert Lindquist, the well known Chicago tenor. The orchestra concerts will occur Saturday afternoon and evening, April 17.

The following Monday evening the Normal Choral society will sing Handel's famous oratorio, "The Messiah." This organization of two hundred young people has been rehearsing the masterpiece since October. An unique feature of the performance will be the accompanying of all of the choruses by the normal orchestra, which includes some of the best talent in the city. The orchestra, as well as the chorus, is made up entirely of students and faculty members.

The Choral society is especially fortunate in the soloist it has obtained. Miss Anna Hickisch will sing the soprano solos, and of course needs no introduction in her home town. Mr. Marion Green, the popular Chicago baritone, will sing the bass solos. Alma Beck of Cincinnati, who sang there with Florence Hinkle, Clarence Whitehill and Evan Williams in the Messiah, will sing the contralto solos, while Mr. B. M. Foster, the leading tenor in the Twin cities, and soloist in the largest Presbyterian church in St. Paul, will sing the tenor parts. The singing of the Messiah also constitutes the opening number of the State Music Teachers' association which meets in La Crosse, April 19, 29 and 21.

ment. At last the ebony face of Johnson began to show that he realized the battle in front of him was the acme of his career.

The face of his white wife reflected the feelings of the black fighter. In the early stages, when Johnson's confident smile presaged certain victory, she, too, smiled with him.

Then, when the battle went past the fifteenth round and Willard still was baffling the champion, Johnson's smile changed to seriousness and with the look came the strange reflection of awe into the now pale face of the girl in the ringside box.

When she was the wife of Jack Johnson, champion, she was the center of attraction. As the wife of plain Jack Johnson, dethroned negro fighter, she would be an outcast and the subject of ostracism. These thoughts, I know, ran through her mind as round by round Willard proved Johnson was not the Johnson of Reno days.

Then came the twentieth round. Into the eyes of Johnson there crept the look which shows when a man is in the last ditch—before the firing squad. Jack Johnson, master of ring craft, conqueror of Jeffries, knew his Waterloo was approaching. He was battling against his master, and thinking now only of the miserable white girl who had left her race to cast her lot with the glamour of his life. He sent for Promoter Curley.

Curley arrived at the end of the twenty-second round. Johnson leaned from his corner and whispered: "Take my wife to the gate, Jack; I'm going fast and I don't want her to see the finish if I am to be knocked out."

When all that is said against Johnson is totalled in the ledger of life, I want to place to his credit that one act. In the dizzy avalanche of blows showered upon him by Willard, his real thoughts were for his wife and as Curley led her, downcast, discouraged and tearful from the arena she knew the doom of her pitiful romance and sudden life has been sealed.

The end of time for her had arrived.

MORE CLOTHING IS NEEDED

Miss Nadia Thomas, general secretary of the Associated Charities, is making another appeal to the people of La Crosse for cast off clothing for the poor. The organization has been selling clothing to the poor at the cost of handling, included the maintenance of help at the store.

FARMERS PROTEST SKIM MILK CHEESE

La Crosse County Herdsmen Declare They Object to Lowering Wisconsin's Cheese Standard

Dairymen in La Crosse county are strenuously opposing a measure before the Wisconsin legislature to legalize skim milk cheese, and are voting on resolutions to be presented to the legislature.

The skim milk cheese bill is denounced by the resolution, of which Senator Otto Bosshard, La Crosse, is a strong supporter, as a forerunner of like legislation in favor of oleomargarine. It was against this proposal that former Dairy and Food Commissioner J. Q. Emery waged relentless war before his retirement.

La Crosse county dairymen signing the resolution maintain that the plan to legalize skim milk cheese would greatly lower the standard of Wisconsin cheese, made famous for its purity, through recently passed progressive laws.

MICHIGAN REPUBLICAN

DETROIT, Mich., April 6.—The entire republican state ticket was successful in yesterday's election. Returns still very incomplete today, showed that the vote, except in counties where local option was an issue, was extremely light, but that the republican ticket carried by probably 30,000 majority. The progressive vote was negligible.

The ticket named was as follows: Supreme court justices, A. C. Macalvey and M. L. Brooke; university regents, Junius Beal and Frank B. Leland; superintendent of public instruction, Fred L. Keeler; members of the state board of agriculture, William B. Wallace and I. Roy Waterbury; members of the state board of education, Fred A. Jeffers.

JOHNSON CHANGES PLANS PREPARES QUICK GETAWAY

Dethroned King of Heavies Plans Hurried Return to England as Rumors of Arrest Fly About

HAVANA, April 6.—Jack Johnson, fallen heavyweight champion, suddenly changed his plans this afternoon and made preparations for a quick get-away to England, leaving by way of Jamaica tonight.

Rumors that the negro was about to be arrested at the request of United States government and returned to Chicago on white slave charges were circulated here at about noon. They could not be confirmed. Before 1 p. m. Johnson's valet was busy packing his belongings and the negro announced that he would take a night boat. He refused to give any reason for his quick change in plans.

TAKES FALL HUNTING LICENSE OUT TODAY

Peter Lee, Onalaska, holds a record for taking out the first hunting license in La Crosse county for the fall season of 1915, and is one of the earliest in the history of the county to get a hunting permit. Lee says he has ten dogs and three guns and that he is going to get the first duck that flies south when the season opens September 7. He took out his license today.

CIVIL WAR VETERAN DIES

William F. Miller, veteran of the Civil war and a member of Wilson Colwell post, No. 77, G. A. R., died Monday morning at the Soldiers' Home in Milwaukee, after a several weeks' illness following a stroke of paralysis. Mr. Miller was an old time mason contractor of this city. He was born in Philadelphia, September 10, 1848.

He is survived by his widow; two sons, Roy and William; and one sister, Mrs. James A. Trane, all of La Crosse.

The G. A. R. will have charge of the funeral services, which will be held at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon from Miller Brothers' chapel, Rev. J. E. Watson officiating. Interment will be in Oak Grove cemetery.

"Y" MEN HAVE BANQUET

Tentative plans for spring and summer activities in tennis, baseball, track and swimming and cross country runs were talked over last night at the senior banquet held at the Y. M. C. A. The dinner was the conclusion of the regular season of the senior basketball league. Owing to the interest displayed in the game at the association a new league of four teams was formed to play until May 1. Prof. J. R. Moore of the normal school talked briefly on "Clean Sports."

However, the way of the transgressor is very popular.

SALOON IS ISSUE IN MADISON VOTE

Close Contest in Progress with Decision Expected to Be Matter of a Few Votes

MADISON, Wis., April 6.—Madison's full voting strength is out today and it will be needed for whatever way the tide turns, on the question of wet or dry, the margin, it is predicted will be extremely small. Up to noon the largest vote in the city's history, covering the same period of hours, had been cast. From "wet" and "dry" headquarters expressions of confidence were forthcoming this noon.

GREEN BAY, Wis., April 6.—The fight between Thomas A. Delaney, present incumbent and Martin Morgan, discharged police officer, for the office of police justice, and several warm aldermanic contests, are the poignant features of today's election in this city. Morgan has the backing of a certain contingent, laboring under the belief that he was not accorded a fair deal prior to his dismissal from the police department, and they are promoting his interests on the theory that he dared to do right.

FOND DU LAC, Wis., April 6.—Fond du Lac is voting on its new commission candidates today. Despite rain a big vote is being cast and predictions are made that the race will prove close. A special election is being held also on a $40,000 bond issue for a new school.

MICHIGAN REPUBLICAN

DETROIT, Mich., April 6.—The entire republican state ticket was successful in yesterday's election. Returns still very incomplete today, showed that the vote, except in counties where local option was an issue, was extremely light, but that the republican ticket carried by probably 30,000 majority. The progressive vote was negligible.

The ticket named was as follows: Supreme court justices, A. C. Macalvey and M. L. Brooke; university regents, Junius Beal and Frank B. Leland; superintendent of public instruction, Fred L. Keeler; members of the state board of agriculture, William B. Wallace and I. Roy Waterbury; members of the state board of education, Fred A. Jeffers.

JOHNSON CHANGES PLANS
PREPARES QUICK GETAWAY

Dethroned King of Heavies Plans
Hurried Return to England as Rumors of Arrest Fly
About

HAVANA, April 6.—Jack Johnson, fallen heavyweight champion, suddenly changed his plans this afternoon and made preparations for a quick get-away to England, leaving by way of Jamaica tonight.

Rumors that the negro was about to be arrested at the request of United States government and returned to Chicago on white slave charges were circulated here at about noon. They could not be confirmed. Before 1 p. m. Johnson's valet was busy packing his belongings and the negro announced that he would take a night boat. He refused to give any reason for his quick change in plans.

TAKES FALL HUNTING
LICENSE OUT TODAY

Peter Lee, Onalaska, holds a record for taking out the first hunting license in La Crosse county for the fall season of 1915, and is one of the earliest in the history of the county to get a hunting permit. Lee says he has ten dogs and three guns and that he is going to get the first duck that flies south when the season opens September 7. He took out his license today.

CIVIL WAR VETERAN DIES

William F. Miller, veteran of the Civil war and a member of Wilson Colwell post, No. 77, G. A. R., died Monday morning at the Soldiers' Home in Milwaukee, after a several weeks' illness following a stroke of paralysis. Mr. Miller was an old time mason contractor of this city. He was born in Philadelphia, September 10, 1848.

He is survived by his widow; two sons, Roy and William; and one sister, Mrs. James A. Trane, all of La Crosse.

The G. A. R. will have charge of the funeral services, which will be held at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon from Miller Brothers' chapel, Rev. J. E. Watson officiating. Interment will be in Oak Grove cemetery.

"Y" MEN HAVE BANQUET

Tentative plans for spring and summer activities in tennis, baseball, track and swimming and cross country runs were talked over last night at the senior banquet held at the Y. M. C. A. The dinner was the conclusion of the regular season of the senior basketball league. Owing to the interest displayed in the game at the association a new league of four teams was formed to play until May 1. Prof. J. R. Moore of the normal school talked briefly on "Clean Sports."

However, the way of the transgressor is very popular.

to Be Matter of a Few Votes

MADISON, Wis., April 6.—Madison's full voting strength is out today and it will be needed for whichever way the tide turns, on the question of wet or dry, the margin, it is predicted will be extremely small. Up to noon the largest vote in the city's history, covering the same period of hours, had been cast. From "wet" and "dry" headquarters expressions of confidence were forthcoming this noon.

GREEN BAY, Wis., April 6.—The fight between Thomas A. Delaney, present incumbent and Martin Morgan, discharged police officer, for the office of police justice, and several warm aldermanic contests, are the poignant features of today's election in this city. Morgan has the backing of a certain contingent, laboring under the belief that he was not accorded a fair deal prior to his dismissal from the police department, and they are promoting his interests on the theory that he dated to do right.

FOND DU LAC, Wis., April 6.—Fond du Lac is voting on its first commission candidates today. Despite rain a big vote is being cast and predictions are made that the race will prove close. A special election is being held also on a $40,000 bond issue for a new school.

SUBMARINE OF NEW TYPE OVERTAKES AND
SINKS BRITISH SHIP

LONDON, April 6.—A big submarine that dashed through a heavy sea at incredible speed torpedoed and sank the steamer Northlands off Beachy Head, in the English channel. While some of the crew, landed at Deal today, believed the attacking "untersee boote" was the famous U12, others believed it was of a newer and far more powerful type.

Word of the sinking of the Northlands was received here only a short time before the crew of the Grimsby trawler Agatha was landed at Blyth, near Newcastle. The Agatha was overhauled and sunk by a submarine in the North sea after a short chase.

The Northlands ignored the first signal from the submarine, commanding her to halt. Her stokers set at work furiously and swinging in zig-zag fashion, she dashed in towards shore. A gale was rolling up high waves in the channel but in a few minutes the submarine was alongside the Northlands and signalled "Abandon your ship."

The boats were lowered and the crew was pulling away when a terrific explosion nearly broke the steamer in two.

"At the same instant," said one of the Northlands' sailors, "her whistle mysteriously broke out in a wailing death shriek that lasted until the waves engulfed her. It was devilish uncanny."

The steamer carried a cargo of iron ore and settled quickly.

Italian Ship Sunk?
ROME, April 6.—A report reached here this afternoon that the steamer Luigi Parodi, carrying a cargo of coal from Baltimore, was shelled and sunk by a German submarine. The report has not been officially confirmed.

The Luigi Parodi is an Italian steamer of 4,127 tons. Her port of registry is Genoa. She was built in 1899 and is 360 feet in length.

RUMOR SAYS SPEED
WAS THIRTY MILES

Charles Boodle, engineer, and W. Goldman, fireman, on the engine that killed Albert H. Nelson, a peddler, at the Onalaska street crossing of the Northwestern railroad, testified before the inquest held yesterday in the office of Otto M. Schlaabach, district attorney.

Officially, strict secrecy is maintained as to the nature of the testimony, but it was rumored today that evidence had been given to the effect that the train was moving at the rate of thirty miles an hour. The Onalaska ordinance limits speed to twelve miles an hour.

In order to hear further witnesses Coroner Tetley continued the hearing until Thursday morning at 9 o'clock. The position of freight cars on the siding, in relation to the ordinance requirements, will be investigated.

YOUNG PEOPLE ENTERTAIN

A MEDICINE OF MERIT

A proprietary medicine, like everything else that comes before the public, has to prove its merits. The law of the survival of the fittest applies in this field as in others. The reason for the tremendous success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is because it has been fulfilling a real human need for forty years, so that today thousands of American women owe their health and happiness to the marvelous power of this famous medicine, made from roots and herbs—nature's remedy for woman's ills.

PHILHARMONIC CLUB TO GIVE A CONCERT

Annual Musical Event to Be Staged at Theater May 6; Ralph Toland Is Soloist

The Philharmonic society, the only society of its kind truly representative of this city, the only one that has demonstrated its right to the support of the people, the only one that has received the commendation of the board of trade, the only one that has had the vitality to last two years, closes these two years of activity with a concert to be given Thursday evening, May 6, at the La Crosse theater.

The La Crosse Philharmonic society has made good. It is the liveliest, strongest and soundest musical organization ever produced by this city. Its work is artistically correct. Its concert are real entertainments and that they will have a capacity house this year is already guaranteed.

A fine program has been prepared of classical and popular music. It will be short and snappy. The splendid and perfected organization of the Philharmonic has always shown itself to advantage in the professional way in which the programs have been rendered and the details taken care of to avoid delay.

Mr. Ralph Toland will be the soloist. That he is the best singer produced by La Crosse in many a long year is now a well known fact. This may be the last opportunity that the La Crosse public will have of hearing Mr. Toland in a concert program in some time. It is probable that he will soon be on the concert stage. His splendid voice, coupled with the artistic and intelligent interpretation insures his numbers being a strong feature of the Philharmonic concert. Mr. Walter Goetzinger will accompany him.

There will probably be many attractions in the city of La Crosse preceding and immediately following the Philharmonic concert, but remember that the Philharmonic belongs to La Crosse, that it has given the finest entertainments ever given in this city and that we want it to continue its present prosperity. It is up to the people of La Crosse to give it every support.

SPOTLIGHTS

STOCK COMPANY PLEASING

Another large crowd witnessed the performance of "The Circus Girl" last night, and every one enjoyed it immensely, of the rounds of applause are any criterion. Especially good work is being done this week by Miss Beatrice Darre, while Raleigh Dent demonstrated that he is a comedian par excellence. Mr. Juste Fontaine also gave a splendid performance of James Arnold, whose love for a worldly woman makes him forget his manhood for a time. Tonight Mr. Ryan has arranged to have the election returns announced from the stage.

JOHN DREW

The coming of John Drew is always an event of extreme interest and importance to local playgoers and the announcement of the engagement of this most distinguished of American players at the La Crosse theater is a very welcome one. Double interest attaches to Mr. Drew's present appearance since he is to be seen here in a revival of the delightful comedy in which he achieved one of the most notable of his successes some years ago. The play might be said to be wholly new to the present generation of theater goers and the proof that it has lost none of its delightful charm or humor is found in the praise accorded the present revival. Charles Frohman has brought about Mr. Drew's reappearance in the role of Sir Jasper Thorndyke after immeasurable requests extending backward through a period of three or four years.

Mr. Drew, during his notable career, has never been seen to better advantage than as the English country squire who falls desperately in love with an eloping damsel whose flight with her intended husband is interrupted in front of Sir Jasper's park gates by a runaway. The squire aids the lovers, quite blind to the fact that he himself is rapidly succumbing to the charms of the bride-to-be. His awakening comes tardily for with his assistance the two runaways are married.

Sir Jasper's only memento of his weakness of heart is a sprig of rosemary given him by the girl at parting. "That's for remembrance," she says. Fifty years later, a weak old man of ninety, the squire comes across this token and again through his mind run all the incidents of his little romance.

George Washington—"Father of His Country"

EVERY AMERICAN knows that without "Immortal Washington" our National Independence would have been impossible. Few, however, know that the greatest battle of Washington's life was fought to secure for his countrymen the Constitution of the United States. Almost immediately after the Revolution it seemed that all the great sacrifice of blood and treasure had been in vain. The original thirteen states refused to work in harmony, either in spirit or in law. The new Republic was tottering to its foundations. At this critical period in American history the most brilliant men of each state met in convention and unanimously elected Washington as President—undoubtedly the most momentous gathering of the kind the world has ever known. Here he displayed as great ability as law-maker as he had as a warrior. For months the Fathers of the Republic labored, and finally adopted our present National Law, which forever guarantees Religious, Commercial and Personal Liberty. This was in 1787. Seventy years later Anheuser-Busch established their great institution upon the tenets of the Federal law which Washington did so much to create. Like all of the great men of his time, he was a moderate user of good old barley brews. For three generations Anheuser-Busch have brewed honest malt and hop beers. To-day 7500 people are daily employed to keep pace with the ever-increasing public demand. The great popularity of their famous brand—BUDWEISER—due to quality, purity, mildness and exquisite flavor, has made its sales exceed those of any other beer by millions of bottles.

WILLARD IS HAPPY LIKE A SCHOOLBOY WITH HEAVY TITLE

New King of the Ring Is Up Early Today for a Jaunt Around Havana

JOHNSON ASKS CREDIT FOR 90

"I Gave It to Jeffries at Reno, Now Give It to Me," the Dethroned Champ Asks

BY BARRY FARIS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
HAVANNA, April 6.—Happy, like a schoolboy with a new state. That was the evident disposition today of Jess Willard, new—and white—champion world's heavyweight.

The new king of the ring was up early. He roamed around the streets the center of a jostling, admiring throng. The temperamental Cubans went into raptures of demonstration.

Willard Unscratched
Willard was absolutely unscathed. Only a few scratches were the evidence of his winning battle. Jack Johnson, dethroned champion, on the other hand, was sore in mind and body. His ebony frame was wracked with pain from Willard's punning.

But the big black, winning yet from the terrific blows of the cowboy champion, showed sportsmanship in seeking recognition for a game, though losing fight. "Give me what credit is due," Johnson told me. "No other heavy-weight in the world could have stood off Willard for twenty-six rounds. I gave it to Jeffries for gamely taking a beating from me at Reno; now give it to me."

Tom Jones Is Power
Tom Jones, Willard's manager, shared today in the felicitations over the wrestling of the big prize of flatland from the negro. He deserves the greatest credit for his part in returning the championship to the white race.

Willard is the third champion developed by Jones. Billy Papke and Ad Wolgast rose to the front rank under Jones' tutelage. I learned today how Jones, despite disappointments and reverses, put Willard on his present pedestal. It cost him $34,000 during the last three years alone. The contract for Jones' management called for but $250. Now the contract to both is worth a fortune.

Once Rough Now Polished
Jones has been the experienced hand which guided Willard and fashioned him into the skilled offensive and defensive fighter which utterly amazed many spectators yesterday. Willard has been regarded a clumsy, though husky, novice. Jones was also the master mind which planned and directed the whole course of battle, with Willard minutely following instructions and never being in danger at any stage of the fighting.

Willard and Jones today began to taste the first fruits of this financial harvest ahead. Cablegrams offering vaudeville engagements showed up on the new champion. Willard planned to leave here today or tomorrow for Key West and go direct to New York for a vaudeville engagement. Johnson planned to leave today for Martinique, to take a steamer for France, where he and his white wife expect to make their home. Johnson was not disturbed by reports that he might be arrested, de-

LA CROSSE CITY BOWLING LEAGUE ENDS THIS WEEK

Final Rolling of the Local League Starts Tonight with Nelsons-Lotus Match

GUNDS PROSPECTIVE CHAMPS

Brewers Remain in Lead with Nelsons Trailing; Paulson Leads Individual Averages

With the Gunds in the lead by four and one-half games over the Nelsons, the last week's rolling in the La Crosse City Bowling league begins tonight, the Nelsons and the Lotus club hooking up for the evening. A few postponed games will also be rolled either this week or next.

Should the Nelsons win three games with the Lotus club tonight besides their three postponed games, and should the Gunds lose their three games Thursday with the La Crosse club, the two teams would be tied for first place. Such an event, however, is improbable as the La Crosse club at present is at the foot of the column. Only on a few occasions have teams in the league taken three straight games from any team. Oscar Paulson and A. S. Ulrich, both members of the Gunds, are tied in individual averages with 185. John Williams and A. W. Mekvold are tied for second place with 182. Lynn Gullickson of the Nelsons is next in line with 181.

The figures:

Averages of Ten High Men	Games	Average
O. F. Paulson	35	185
A. S. Ulrich	34	185
John Williams	48	182
A. W. Mekvold	29	182

Throng of Fans Hurrah at News

FLASH—WILLARD WINS ON A KNOCKOUT IN THE TWENTY-SIXTH ROUND.

The word was the spark that sent the crowd in front of the TRIBUNE into pandemonium. The uproar left little doubt as to the temper of the throng who stood for two hours in front of the plant awaiting patiently each bulletin from Havana.

Then into the office walked Burke, the Willard man who for the last week has been keeping the force posted on the prowess of Jess and the few chances of the black in the ring with him. But there was no "I told you so" with him, either in speech or expression. He simply beamed with smiles as he said, "The dope was all right, wasn't it?"

"How much did you win on the fight?" some inquirer advanced. "Oh, just a few dollars and a couple of boxes of cigars," he replied as though a Johnson-Willard fight were a weekly occurrence. But he was mighty good-natured.

"HIGH" TRACK MEN PLAN BUSY SEASON

La Crosse high school track men started their annual grind last night when Coach Horne took the squad out onto the campus. Only light work was required of the men, as it is only the beginning of the season. If the turnout last night can be taken as a sign, this year high school will have a record breaking team. The squad which is large is well balanced and has good men in every line of outdoor sports.

Preparation for the inter-class meet is now being made. Much competition is being shown and the result of the meet cannot be predicted with any certainty, as all the teams are strong.

ROOKIES AND REGULARS

HAVANA.—Fielder Jones stirred up a near-mutiny yesterday when he chased his Stoo-Feds athletes aboard the boat for home just before the big battle. Jones feared the players would have remain a week more if they got caught in the rush to get away. The Federals open in Chicago Saturday.

ST. LOUIS.—Outfielder Bob Bescher of the Giants is on his way from Little Rock to join the Cardinals, according to Manager Huggins of the Cardinals, and Huggins hastened to explain "Bescher's recalcitrancy was actuated by things that cannot be published now."

DRYS WIN IN MICHIGAN

LANSING, Mich., April 6.—A sweeping victory for "dry" forces in Michigan was indicated today when nearly complete returns from sixteen counties which yesterday held local options elections showed the "drys" winner in probably thirteen of them. As a result of the election 265 saloons will be legislated out of existence on May 1.

HITTING the high places of public favor—the way news of "Right-Cut," the Real Tobacco Chew, is getting around from friend to friend.

A little chew of pure, rich, mellow tobacco—cut fine, short shred—seasoned and sweetened just enough, cuts out so much of the grinding and spitting.

Take a very small chew—less than one-quarter the old size. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just nibble on it until you find the strength chew that suits you. Tuck it away. Then let it rest. See how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

It is a ready chew, cut fine and short shred so that you won't have to grind it with your teeth. Grinding on ordinary candied tobacco makes you spit too much.

The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up with molasses and licorice. Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste in "Right-Cut."

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

OLD BLACK MAMMY AT HOME THOUGHT JACK JUST COULDN'T LOSE

BY JAMES O'DEA
(Written for the United Press.)

CHICAGO, April 6.—Down at 3344 Wabash avenue, in the heart of Chicago's famed black belt, there is a little old woman who doesn't fully understand that she is no longer the mother of a champion. She just couldn't be, you know, that her boy was knocked out—there must be something wrong. So patiently she sat up most of the night waiting for a cable from her "boy" that would explain the whole thing. She would laugh at those white folks who besieged her door. But never came. She was Mrs. Tina Johnson, Jack Johnson's black mammy.

Jack Reassures Family
Jack's sister spoke for the family. "No," she said, "we won't tell till we hear from Jack. I know he has an explanation, for it was only Saturday that he wired us to get down the family jewels on him. And you know that Jack knows something when he wired his old mother that way. There will be a lot of news about this fight before many hours."

Little Rioting
There was little rioting in the dark belt. The negroes for the most part took it philosophically. Here and there were drunken brawls between whites and blacks, but they were rare. But there is a band of crepe throughout the black belt that is darker than any of its dusky citizens. They have lost their place in the sun.

clearing that he was safe while in Cuba or on the high seas.

Emmett is on the Map
EMMETT, Kan., April 6.—Having been placed on the map by a mighty wallop by Jess Willard, that won him the world's championship, all work was suspended today while the town folks recalled every incident in the life of their hero.

As the village sees it, the nearest Willard ever came to being a cowboy was the fact that he was an expert broncho buster. They insist he never rode the range. To the surrounding country he is just a whaling little farmer boy who didn't know a thing about boxing until he left his birthplace five years ago and headed for Oklahoma. All are proud of the fact that Willard is a "teetotaler" and no roughneck.

DREADED TYPHUS FEVER STRIKES DOWN AMERICAN DOCTOR WHO HAD CHARGE OF ALL HOSPITAL WORK IN SERBIAN CAPITAL

Top, Dr. Ryan (arrow) dressing wounds of Serbian soldier in Belgrade hospital.

Word has just been received in this country that Dr. Edward W. Ryan of the American Red Cross has been stricken with typhus fever in Belgrade, Serbia. On November 25 last, Dr. Ryan was placed in charge of the hospital work in Belgrade. This included the care of five army hospitals, with about forty buildings. He had under his direction nine Serbian doctors and 150 nurses, who were caring for about 1,200 patients.

"Whys" of Moves in European War

(BY J. W. T. MASON)
NEW YORK, April 5.—11 a. m.—The first positive information that the Russians have decided to use their Przemysl army for the Hungarian campaign is contained in official announcement from Vienna that large Russian reinforcements from Przemysl have compelled the Austrians to give way in the Beskid region.

The Beskids are the highest part of the Carpathian range, which district Lukow pass provides railway communications from Przemysl through southern Galicia into Hungary. Przemysl capitulated on March 22. It has required, therefore, nearly a fortnight to move the Russian besieging force over the sixty miles of railway that separates the San Fortress from the Carpathian battle front.

Part of this time undoubtedly was spent in debating the use to which the Przemysl army should be put. The Austrian official report indicates that the invasion of Hungary was considered more important by the Russian staff than an effort to capture Cracow. This unquestionably is the most advantageous service the fresh Russian forces can render the czar's western allies.

It is not quite yet apparent, however, that the Lukow pass and its vast railway system has fallen into the hands of the Russians. Both Austrian and Russian official reports define gains and losses vaguely so that it is impossible to determine definitely whether the metal line of communication into Hungary for which the Slavs are now fighting has been won. In all probability the Austrians still retain control of the Hungarian side of the mountains in the Lukow region. The Austrian army must be dislodged from the mountains and driven toward the plains before the Russians can establish a sure ascendancy and make use of the Magyar railway. It is probable that German reinforcements are being rushed to the assistance of the hard pressed Austrians. If the Slavs can establish themselves on the Hungarian side of the Lukow pass before the Germans arrive they will have won a highly important tactical advantage. This is the immediate work now before the Przemysl army.

A Sure Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve, and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

GUERRO EXCEPTION ON VARIETY STAGE

Violinist at Majestic This Week Plays Good Music Artistically on $2,000 Londolfi Fiddle

Most violinists on the variety stage have not, as a rule, penetrated very deep into the art of playing the violin. On a rosincovered three dollar fiddle and a bow which is simply a stovepoker with a horsehair lining, the overture to Poet and Peasant is usually the principal number attacked and after the Poet has shared Jack Johnson's fate of yesterday a lot of cheap ragtime fiddling with the mockingbird variations at the end conclude the "music."

Mr. H. K. Guerrero, the Majestic theater has this week a violinist of unusual interest. Mr. Guerrero is a violinist of good schooling and he plays a good class of music with artistic taste and in becoming style. Mr. Guerrero is particularly successful in playing single and double harmonies and the violinist has splendid aid in his work by a fine mellow toned violin, made by the celebrated luthier Carlo Londolfi of Milan. Mr. Guerrero bought this violin in Berlin for 8,000 marks ($2,000).

The Duets which Mr. Guerrero plays with Mlle. Olga Carmon, harpist, are also very interesting and the lady who plays the harp in a manner deserving high praise in the ensemble numbers is also very clever in the performance of harp solos. Off the stage Mlle. Carmon is Mrs. Guern and her nationality is that of one of the most musical races in the world, the Bohemian.

Daddy's Bedtime

Story — The Path Through the Green Woods.

"I MUST tell you kiddies tonight about the path through the green woods," said daddy, "and how Betty used to love to follow it and about the many dear little woods creatures she saw on her journeys."

"Betty was a little girl who loved the outdoors in the summer, and who loved particularly the path through the green woods. It was just a small bit of woods, so her mamma used to let her follow the path alone."

"It was nice and cool and green through the woods, and the shadows lay soft and comfy at the foot of the great trees, and the sunshine streamed through the branches just dimly, making a mellow radiance. And the path wound in and out among the trees, and it was brown and springy, and along its edges there grew pretty ferns and some wild flowers which Betty used to love to pluck and fetch home to her mamma."

"But it was the little live creatures that she met in the woods that Betty was most interested in. She had some funny experiences too."

"One day she was walking along the path, and she heard from somewhere above her head something say, 'Who, who?' And she looked up in the branches of a great oak tree and saw two yellow eyes staring at her, and she was not in the least frightened, for she knew it was only an owl, a funny little hoot owl that says 'Who!' just like it was talking to you."

"Another time she heard something coming with a queer little thud through the brush, and the next minute out hopped a rabbit upon the brown path. Betty stopped still and looked at him, and he sat right up on his haunches and looked at her. And his funny little nose went twitch, twitch, and his long ears were picked up in the most inquiring way. And his eyes were big and round, and he looked at Betty as if he had never seen her before, which, of course, he hadn't. And by and by off he went hopping into the woods again."

"But I think Betty loved the squirrels she met in the woods better than anything else. They would chatter to her as she tripped along, and she would look up and smile to see their bright and beady eyes, which looked real saucy, and their waving, bushy tails, and they would scamper playfully along the limbs of the trees."

"The squirrels seemed to like Betty and have confidence in her. She learned to bring good things for them to eat, and then they became very friendly. They would run almost up to her when she was feeding them, and one of them became so tame before the summer was over that he would eat right out of her hand."

"Don't you think Betty was lucky to have that path through the woods?"

ing of having taken a wife, was because he had a fad.

Every man has a fad, even to the fad of picking up stray pins on the sidewalk, but what all men are ready to deny is that they have one. Some other fellow is invariably the guilty party. Thus, while a score of persons said that John Blanchard had a fad, he said to himself that he was the only man in a thousand who steered clear of them.

As a youth, Master Blanchard was inclined to serious thought; one of the most serious was the preservation of the present for the future. He realized that all things, even to nations, must decay and leave no more behind them than the cave-dwellers. There must come a time, maybe a hundred thousand years hence, when a new nation would long to know how the American lived in his day and date. They would go hunting around for relics and souvenirs, and they would find remains of skyscrapers, subways, elevated roads. Here and there they would uncover a poem written by a Yankee school-marm—now and then a speech delivered by a senator; but from those things could any future historian make out the real life of the people?

And John Blanchard went to making a collection. It was such a collection as would enable the future historian to make out our every-day life, even down to the brand of cigars the men smoked, and the name of the bars of soap the women bought for the laundries.

John Blanchard's name was to be saved to posterity. The first move he made was to write out his history from birth to date, and then begin a diary which should only close with his death. He bought books to be inclosed in iron boxes; he fled away his papers; he preserved magazines; he gathered postage stamps and coins.

John Blanchard was the son of a wealthy parents. When he attained his majority he had more wealth awaiting him. He could and he did erect a building and stuff it from basement to garret with his collections. He was still at it when he made a new acquaintance that was bound to bring about changes in his life.

John Blanchard might have been the only male faddist in his town that carried the idea to an extreme, and it never occurred to him that a female might enter the lists against him. One day, however, it was Miss Myra Day, a young woman who had dwelt in this vale of tears almost as long as he had, although her fad wasn't born so early.

Miss Myra realized that the day must come when the last trust, the last grafter and the last American must go hence and leave the ruins of his cities to be pawed over by relic hunters of a later race and to be the hooting place of big-eyed owls, and that she had a duty to do. Those

PEORIA WOMAN PRAISES REMEDY

Mrs. Tilla Conard Tells Remarkable Experience After Suffering For Months

Mrs. Tilla Conard lives at 307 Morgan Street, Peoria. She suffered from stomach trouble for months. Nothing seemed to give relief. One day she visited a sister who resides in Bloomington, and upon urgent advice consented to try one bottle of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. This, in her own words, is the story of her experience—read it.

"For a number of months I suffered terribly with pains in my stomach; would fill with gas and belch for an hour at a time. I had pains in my side which at times I thought would kill me. I was under the doctor's care for four months, but got no relief at all. One day while in Bloomington my sister persuaded me to take a bottle of your remedy. To say the results were wonderful would be putting it mildly. After the first dose my pain left me, my appetite improved, my skin became clear again and I felt like a new woman."

Mayr's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Eat as much and whatever you like. No more distress after eating, pressure of gas in the stomach and around the heart. Get one bottle of your druggist now and try it on an absolute guarantee—if not satisfactory money will be returned.

people who were to come after would be curious about our bird life. They would wonder if our robins had teeth like a grizzly bear, if our bluebirds carried off and devoured babies, if the woodpecker emerged from his cave at midnight to revel in human gore.

It was his mission to leave a leaf of history behind for their benefit. She, as well as Mr. Blanchard, had wealth and could indulge herself. She began collecting the eggs of birds and acquiring stuffed specimens. In this she spent thousands of dollars. She was thorough in her work, too. She could speak and write three different languages, and she never packed up and laid an egg or a stuffed specimen away without writing on three different cards: "This is the egg of a quail," or "This is the quail himself," or whatever egg or bird it was.

When Miss Myra had accumulated enough specimens to load several trucks she turned to insects. The race that was to come would ask what kind of horseflies, hornets and fleas the lost Americans did business with. The collection of the young woman would answer any question. She could imagine the investigator of 100,000 years hence inquiring of himself:

"Now, then, I wonder if the 'blamed old hornet' was a new thing with us, or if they had him in the long ago?" And then her collection would be discovered. "I'll be hanged if the pesky vermin isn't right here, as big as life, and the hossfly is in the next stall with him," the investigator would exclaim.

Miss Myra bought insects of small boys, and she went ahead for them personally. The farmer didn't pay much attention to the boy roaming over the fields in search of the grasshopper, but when it came to a woman racing up and down with a net in her hand and her eyes bulging out he would stop his plow to stare.

"Good lands, but 'spose I had married that thing instead of Mirandy?" Mr. John Blanchard heard of a farmer who had a valuable collection of manuscripts that would give history a fair insight into our ways of doing business in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. It was a farmer who never paid a debt unless he was about to be burned at the stake, and

City Plans to Build Many New Homes During the Summer; Old Ones Re-built and Modernized

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, Wis., April 6. (Special.)—The building season is beginning early in Prairie du Chien and bids fair to be a busy one. Among the many who will erect new homes this summer are David Slightam, G. J. Callahan and Lawrence Kieser, who will build on Minnesota street, north of St. John's Catholic church.

Henry Potratz and Fred Hammerly will have homes built on Church street opposite St. Mary's academy. The Garvey houses occupied by W. R. Tartt and John Lawless are to be enlarged and modernized and a new double house to be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Tartt and Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Munson will be built on the Garvey property opposite the court house.

Daughter Dies
The sympathy of a large circle of friends and acquaintances goes out to Mr. and Mrs. Jay Atkinson, whose little daughter, Beatrice, died Friday night after a short illness.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at the home, Rev. F. A. Trautman officiating.

Local and Personal
William Mueller of this city submitted to a serious operation Saturday at a La Crosse hospital, his condition being now reported as favorable. Mrs. Mueller is in La Crosse with her husband.

The ferry between Prairie du Chien and McGregor made its first regular trips for the season on Sunday.

The Ladies' Guild of Trinity Episcopal church will meet Wednesday afternoon at the Guild hall.

Mrs. Alexander Athey leaves this week to visit her daughter, Miss Katharine, in New York.

W. A. Hazeltine of Mazomanie was in the city Friday.

Mrs. R. W. Fallis visited at Guttenberg, Iowa, the last of the week. J. H. Savage left Sunday morning for St. Paul after a month's visit at the family home here.

The valuable manuscripts were the dunning letters he had received.

You may call it a coincidence. You may call it luck. You may say it was the hand of Providence. Whatever it was it brought the two collectors face to face on that farm. It introduced them. It made Miss Myra agree that the dunning letters were the cap-sheat of the collection, and it made Mr. Blanchard volunteer to go with her and help capture a few crickets.

The farmer refused a very liberal offer for his manuscripts, on the grounds that if he had money his creditors would pursue him afresh; and when he came to half understand the business of the collectors he was filled with contempt.

"That fellow order be splittin' wood and that woman order be slicin' apples to dry!" was the way he looked at it, and when they came to ask where the largest and choicest crickets could be found he pointed to a bush in the pasture and replied:

"You'll find some lively ones down there."

The farmer's wife came out to him at the plow and asked:

"Josiah, what does that woman want?"

"Why, she's one of 'em."

"Does she want to buy them dunning letters, or the old letters you wrote me afore we were married?"

"No. She's after bugs."

"Good lands!"

"I couldn't make out exactly what she wanted of them, but when they asked about crickets I sent 'em over in the pasture."

"Are they goin' to try the grease out of 'em for rheumatism?"

"Dunno. I couldn't understand half their big talk."

And as the two collectors walked slowly across the field they warmed toward each other, as was natural. Of the millions of people in the United States they alone, very likely, were the only ones working for those who were to be coveting around when the Falls of Niagara were worn out like an old washboard.

Two lawyers would have been in a wrangle in five minutes as to who should have the crickets after they had been captured.

Two editors would have dragged politics into it and called each other liars.

Two poets would have wrangled about the moonlight and dubbed each jinglers.

But two collectors! Their souls recognized each other at once and clasped hands, as it were.

Mr. Blanchard and Miss Day were so long on their way to cricket roost that the farmer growled to himself:

"If I was after an insect I'd hurry up and get him by a hind leg and then sit on the fence and do my talking!"

But the collectors reached the spot at last. It was a space of matted grass, with a bush growing in the midst of it.

but it was the hour of the day when such insects sleep and dream, and get ready for the business of the evening.

It was right and proper that Mr. Blanchard should get down on his knees and paw around in the grass, and he pawed with energy and determination. He found insects after a minute, but they were not crickets. The farmer saw Mr. Blanchard leap to his feet in surprise. He heard Miss Day utter a shriek and saw her running away.

Then he saw Mr. Blanchard running away and beating the air with his hat. Then it was Miss Day who bounded around and fought something with her field net. Then the farmer said to himself:

"They've struck that bumble bee's nest that I was saving for a wire fence man, and perhaps they'll need help. Queer that these bug folks can't tell a cricket from a bee!"

There was need of his help. Both were tearing around in a manner both emphatic and woolly. Armed with a broken bush, the rescuer fought the bees to a standstill, but they had done their work. The wife came from the house to lead Miss Day to it, and the husband brought up the procession with Mr. Blanchard.

"It will be three or four days before you can go," said the doctor who was called.

It turned out to be five, but after the second day time passed joyfully. With their heads and hands bandaged, and one eye opened enough to see their way, the collectors sat on the veranda and talked of birds and eggs and manuscripts and insects and—love. Yes, they talked love to leave a record of how it was done in last America in the twentieth century. And when they departed for their homes the farmer said to his wife:

"They order make them bumble bees a present of $100 for stinging the fads out of 'em!"

Maybe a young man loses sleep nights wondering how he can win the only girl, when all he would have to do is ask her.

OUR COAST DEFENSE

In these modern days of heavy armament and scientific war equipment, much thought has been given to our coast defense. The question of preparedness is one that concerns all patriotic Americans for it is the way the unexpected attack is caused consternation.

This is also true in matters pertaining to health. That great enemy of health—Stomach trouble—may spring an unexpected attack at any time and it is well to be prepared by always keeping a bottle of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters in the house. It is your bulwark in time of distress.

Be on guard at all times, and as soon as you notice the appetite failing, digestion becoming impaired, the liver inactive and the bowels refuse to perform their daily functions, commence taking the Bitters. Prompt action, together with the aid of this medicine, has been the means of preventing much suffering from Stomachache, Nausea, Poor Appetite, Indigestion, Constipation and Bilelessness.

Don't trifle with your health, but rather help Nature when weakness is manifested. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is Nature's ally, and these taken together, form a combination that is sure to result to your welfare. Try it today, but be sure you get the letter's.

THE BLACK INSOLENCE

When the Cash comes that Jack Johnson had been knocked out by Jess Willard, two hundred people crowded before THE TRIBUNE's bulletin board cheered with genuine enthusiasm.

That cheer went across two continents, wherever Caucasian supremacy exists.

But the applause was not entirely inspired by race feeling, although color may have played its part. Perhaps the sincerest test of the white man's skill and strength was important as evidence that the intellectual peoples hold supremacy in things physical as well as mental and spiritual, a thought which credits the victor with a degree of civilization, which some will challenge.

But the thing which engendered hatred of Johnson and pleasure over his fall was the man's insolent insolence. He was a "bad egg" man whose pride it was to hold decency in British debauch, and that paddling to his own depravity was the cause of his downfall is enough. It ever a man needed a good whipping, that man was Jack Johnson, and now that he has been soundly thrashed by a white man one hopes that he may be led by the "color line" to give Sam Langford an opportunity to establish a new black hope.

The beating of Johnson was good for all the earth, but it was best for the colored people. The example of a bad hero was an evil influence upon those negroes who countenanced Johnson, but the worst stroke of the situation was the insult which the pugilist represented to that large class of colored men who dreamed him for a vicious liberal and held him in contempt. We believe the better element of the race aspires to a higher type of leadership than that personified in the fallen champion. His very existence, as he lived it, was a crime against his up-looking people.

Rejoicing that the "color line" will again be drawn in general, and the chief value of this fact, too, rests upon what it means to the negro race. Their illumination from a brutalizing white-man's game should tend to the development of a better type of heroes for the colored worshipper, and the race is capable of producing a higher source of inspiration. Sportsmanship should decree that the white "champ" who shall ignore the "color line" shall automatically lose the title.

AN INTERESTING HALF HOUR

To discover in the hour of farewell that the departing guest is a genius leaves a sense of disappointment that he goes so quickly. This feeling must have been experienced by the members of the normal Parents' and Teachers' association on last Monday at the conclusion of a paper on "Geography," read by Prof. B. A. Stickle, who leaves soon on a year's leave of absence.

Recently there was published in the TRIBUNE a synopsis of his address, fragmentary and inadequate, yet sufficient, perhaps, to indicate to today's parents the wide difference between geography as it is taught by modern methods and the name-location-and-population "Geography" of a few years back.

To "what" and "where?" the subject has added "why?" and "how?" We studied it as the traveling mail agent studies his map of stations in order to distribute the contents of a mail car. Now they look into the mystery of it, get its philosophy, connect related facts, learn cause and effect of production both natural and mechanical, study influences of conditions and environment upon life. New methods of teaching prepare the child for the ampler phases of Geography by teaching him by natural phenomena which he can comprehend, what formerly we sought to give him in allopathic doses of scientific terms.

It was an interesting half hour, and many men and women with gray hair sympathized with the enthusiastic remark of a business man now turned flit, that he would like to take a course in Geography under Prof. Stickle "right now."

AN "AMUSIN' LITTLE CUSS"

The Plute uprising in the off-ends of Utah and Colorado has been peacefully settled. A gray old soldier, General Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff of the United States army, has done what scores of armed men could not effect. He went to meet the Indians, convinced them that he was their friend and that they would get a fair trial—so the lands of the Douglas mesa are quiet again. Some of the professional militarists probably feel that this is altogether undignified, but General Scott is a soldier intent on serving his country, not on fighting battles. To claim that General Scott might adjust the disorders in Europe would, however, be a rash exaggeration: Europe is civilized!—Collier's Weekly.

Collier's reserves its sense of humor for its conscious witticisms. Perhaps, after the trusting aborigines have been duly executed, their survivors may appreciate the value of that distrustful "European civilization."

FIRST CATCH YOUR RABBIT

"At the end of the war, the allies will have two alternatives: They can allow the practice of submerging merchantment to become a usage recognized by the international law, or they can after trial, hang the German officers responsible for initiating it, including Grand Admiral von Tirpitz."—The London Chronicle.

The advice of the cook-book's famous recipe for rabbit stew is respectfully suggested to the editor of The Chronicle:

"First catch your rabbit."

Ananias Step Forth
 "Horses!" said the Yankee. "Guess you can't talk to me about the horses. I had an old mare, Maltzpon, who once loked our best express by a couple of miles on a thirty-mile run to Chicago."

"That's nothing," said the Canadian. "I was out on my farm, one day about fifty miles from the house, when a frightful storm came up. I turned the pony's head for home, and, do you know, he raced the storm so close for the last ten miles that I didn't feel a drop, while my old dog, only ten yards behind, had to swim the whole distance."

Father Some Starter

Two Lancashire boys were expatriating on the relative merits of their fathers as musicians.

"My father is the greatest musician in the town," said one.

"Oh!" the other said. "When my father starts every man stops work."

"How's that?" said the other.

"What does he do?"

"He blows the whistle for meals up at the mill."

Thanked Too Soon

"My boy, I must congratulate you on your consistency."

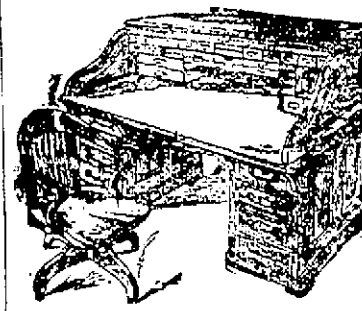

"Thank you, sir. I—er—"

"Yes, sir; you've worked here three weeks, and you haven't done anything right yet."

"Why did you come?"

"I recognized you—even in the distance and in these clothes. Besides, Madame Arnaud sent me."

"With a message?"

He was looking at her again. Through the dusk she saw the white tortured suspense on the hard face. She wore a rose in the severe corsage of her dress. She took it and handed it to him.

"She sent you this—in token of remembrance."

He broke down. With his dark head buried in his arms he leaned against the wooden cross, and the sound of his hard-drawn breath was awful in the silence. She did not touch him or speak to him.

"Thank her," he said. "Tell her I shall keep it always. The goodness that sent it is part of my dream of her."

"I am glad. I shall tell her. I must go. Won't you shake hands now?"

He took her hand and kissed it. "You have come like an angel into my life," he said.

He watched her until her small energetic figure had disappeared among the shadows.

In the distance a bugle called a melancholy retreat.

He lifted the rose reverently to his lips.

CHAPTER VIII
 Corporal Gotz Plays "Rule, Britannia."

In Sidi-bel-Abbes there is a pleasant avenue, shaded by silver birch and redolent of all the sweet perfumes of the East, where the local potentates gather in a select exclusive circle. There are no cafes, no gaudy placards pasted against the trees in the hopes of resuscitating happy memories in the minds of exiled Parisians. The idle bustle of a mixed, many-colored crowd is wholly absent. The houses are mostly modern erections, intersected here and there by an old Arabian dwelling, restored and ruined by a chaotic Latin taste. But they create an oriental impression and serve their purpose.

In the courtyard of one of these houses Colonel Destin sat and smoked an after-tea cigarette. His key lay on the broad balustrade beside him, and his head was thrown back in an attitude of easy contentment. A fountain bubbling up from the cool flags played a melodious accompaniment to his companion's voice, and he watched her from between half-closed eyelids, his tight mouth slightly relaxed by an amused admiration.

"You pour out tea charmingly, Madame," he said. "A second cup would stifle the last regret that I should have gone so far against my principles as to drink a first."

She looked up at him. The soft reflection from the low white walls around them enhanced her ethereal beauty and added the subtle glamour with which the eastern light surrounds the least and most lovely object. Very delicately she obeyed his request, the soft rich lace sleeve of her tea-gown slipping back to reveal the rounded arm and slender over-fragile wrist.

"Do your principles compel you to live only for your soldiers?" she asked lightly.

He laughed.

"Living for them is perhaps too much of a euphemism," he said. "They would be more grateful if I did the other thing. But otherwise it is true. I have not put my foot un-

Who Can Doubt Sworn Testimony of Honest Citizens?

Some time ago I began the use of your Swamp-Root with the most remarkable results. For years I was almost a wreck and was a great sufferer. I was so bad at times I would faint away and had sinking spells. Finally a new doctor was called in and he said that I had kidney trouble and gave me medicine, of which I took several bottles. I obtained some relief from this but I was getting weaker all the time; I could not sleep and suffered so much pain that my husband and children had to lift me in and out of bed. After this time two friends sent me word to try Swamp-Root, which I did, and I am glad to state that the first dose gave me great relief. After taking the third dose I was helped into bed and slept half of the night.

I took several bottles of Swamp-Root and I feel that I owe my life to this wonderful remedy. The two family doctors said that I could not live three months. I would have to be helped in and out of bed ten to twenty times every night. After taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root for two days I was entirely free from getting up and could sleep soundly.

der a hospitable roof for twenty years."

"You must have been very lonely."

"One accustoms one's self to everything."

"Had you no one who—" She hesitated, a sudden color in her cheeks, and he leaned forward, his hands loosely interlocked between his knees, his handsome ruthless face grave and intent.

"No, I hadn't any one, Madame Arnaud."

"Not even in your own country?"

"Not even in my own country."

Her gaze faltered under his steady piercing eyes.

"What is your own country, Colonel Destin?"

"I do not know, Madame. I have forgotten." There was a little silence in which the fountain played a silvery intermezzo, and then he went on in an altered tone. "You are the first person who has made me wish to remember."

She was looking up at him again with a studied frankness, behind which there lurked something hypnotized, fascinated.

He turned carelessly from her.

"Ah, Arnaud, you there? You see, I have been breaking up the principles of years to entertain your wife. If you leave her too much alone you will find these English roses fade very quickly in this dreary place. Man, don't look as if you had seen the devil!"

The young officer, hesitating on the edge of the low veranda, recovered himself with an effort.

"My Colonel—I was taken aback. I had not expected—but I am delighted and most honored. I beg of you to let me enjoy the pleasure."

"No, no, Arnaud. We see enough of each other elsewhere, and, moreover, I have a pressing engagement with three deserters from the eleventh company. Au revoir, Madame—and thank you!"

He lifted her hand to his lips, his eyes still on her face, and returning Arnaud's salute, strode across the sunlit courtyard and disappeared into the shadows. Husband and wife watched him in silence. Then Arnaud gave a short half-angry laugh.

"When the devil goes abroad it is usually to some purpose," he said. "How did he come here?"

"I invited him."

"He had not called on you."

She shrugged her shoulders prettily.

"That was just what made me do it. I was bored and lonely, and bored lonely people are bound to do something mad."

"You are very often bored, Sylvia."

"Yes," she agreed. "But does that mean I am very often mad?"

He made no answer. He was leaning against the balustrade, his arms folded, his eyes on the ground. In his dusty soiled uniform he looked manly enough. The desert had tanned his cheeks and molded his slight frame into an appearance of wiry strength, but there was the painfully white forehead, the nervous mouth, never for an instant quite at rest, which betrayed some fundamental weakness.

At that particular moment his composed silence seemed to act irritatingly on his wife's nerves. She rose and came across the balcony to where a patch of warm evening sunlight hovered caressingly over a newly cut bunch of Algerian roses. She picked them up and smelled them delicately.

"I did not notice them before," she said. "Colonel Destin must have left them."

"No," he answered with his eyes still on his dusty boots. "I brought them."

"For me?"

"For whom else?"

"You did not give them to me."

"I forgot. I was thinking."

"Indeed! Anything that I might know?"

"It was about you." He looked up at her, his pale eyes full of moody wisdom. "I was thinking how much can happen in a year where a woman is concerned. A year ago you would not have been bored, Sylvia. You thought then that there was no more lovely place on earth than Sidi-bel-Abbes, and that there was no other man for you than myself. Now you are restless and discontented. You hate the place and—perhaps your husband." The last words broke from him with a petulant violence. It was the irritable accusation of a man who does not believe what he is saying and expects contradiction. None came. Sylvia Arnaud's fair head was still bent over her flowers. He was still bent over her flowers. He was still bent over her flowers. He was still bent over her flowers.

"How did he come here?"

"I invited him."

"He had not called on you."

She shrugged her shoulders prettily.

"That was just what made me do it. I was bored and lonely, and bored lonely people are bound to do something mad."

"You are very often bored, Sylvia."

"Yes," she agreed. "But does that mean I am very often mad?"

Bisurated Magnesia For Stomach Troubles

In these days of almost universal indigestion, dyspepsia and other stomach trouble the recent announcement by a great specialist that pure bisurated magnesia is an almost infallible remedy for nearly all forms of stomach trouble, will come as a welcome surprise to all sufferers. A teaspoonful in a little water immediately after eating, or whenever pain is felt, neutralizes the excess acid and instantly stops the fermentation and pain. Those who use bisurated magnesia regularly for a week or two usually find that the trouble has entirely disappeared, and normal digestion is completely restored. O. T. Erhart can supply you.

TWO HELD FOR CLEAVER MURDER

Detective Chief of New York Blames Drugs for Cold-blooded Triple Killing

NEW YORK, April 6.—With two suspects under arrest, practically the whole detective force was endeavoring today to find the murderers of Otto Zinn, restaurant proprietor, and his two employees, backed to death with cleavers.

Detective Inspector Faurot, expressed belief today that a drug fiend was the murderer. One of the men under arrest, Edward Wester of Berkeley, Cal., has an injured arm in a sling. He said he was hurt with a cleaver in a fight with a ship's cook. The other, Joseph Carroll, said his head was cut with a club by an unknown man. Both are held for investigation. The bloody cleavers, a knotted handkerchief used as a mask, footprints in the snow outside the restaurant and bloody finger prints on the cafe walls and safe, which the robbers attempted to force, were other clues regarded as important.

The Soldier's Easter Song

Air: Tipperary.
Back from gory battle came a soldier
Easter Day.
The streets were full of people in their Master garments gay;
Silver bells were ringing in the steeples overhead.
The soldier he was wounded, and this is what he said:

"It's a long way to glory, it's a long way to go
From the dim and quiet churches where the Easter lilies blow.
Good-by to home and comfort, farewell to sweethearts dear,
It's a long, long way to glory, and my heart's right here."

When the soldier joined the colors
he was full of thoughts of Fame
But he found among the trenches that they never spoke her name.
Coming home upon a furlough with his right arm in a sling,
He was strong for peace eternal when the chimes began to ring:

"It's a long way to glory, it's a long way to go,
The route is marked in crimson with the blood of friends and foe.
There's a girl I want to marry, we have waited 'most a year.
It's a long, long way to glory when my heart is here."

"I would rather have a cottage, and a garden, and a cow,
Than a V. C. on my bosom, and a laurel on my brow.
War has led me through his shambles till my soul is worn to rags;
Give us peace the wide world over,
fold away the battle flags;

It's a long way to glory, it's a long way to go,
It's a long way to glory and the hardest road I know.
From the snowy Easter lilies may the dove of peace appear.
It's a long, long way to glory, for my heart's right here."

"Cadger has a nerve."

TERRE HAUTAINS ARE CONVICTED

Mayor Donn Roberts and 26 Co-defendants Are Found Guilty of Conspiracy

WILL BE SENTENCED APRIL 12
Judge Anderson Sends All of 116 Defendants to Homes to Await Sentence

INDIANAPOLIS, April 6.—Mayor Donn M. Roberts of Terre Haute and the twenty-six co-defendants in the Terre Haute election corruption conspiracy trial, were today found guilty by the jury in the United States district court. The charge was that they had conspired to corrupt the election on November 3, 1914. Judge A. B. Anderson will pronounce sentence. Judge Anderson instructed the men found guilty today as well as the eighty-nine who had pleaded guilty to go to their homes and to return to court April 12, when sentences will be pronounced on all. The verdict was returned at a few minutes after ten and was not a surprise. It is considered probable that some of the twenty-seven found guilty will appeal.

TRAINMEN'S BALL IS GREAT SUCCESS

Upwards of one hundred couples last night were present at the twenty-sixth annual ball of Gateway City lodge, No. 176, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen at Linker hall. The event, although not so largely attended as in other years, proved from the social standpoint one of the most successful ever held by the lodge. Many people from out of the city, especially from Minneapolis, St. Paul, Portage and Dubuque were in attendance.

White, red and green flags, such as are used by railroads indicative of "clear," "danger" and "go slow" were grouped throughout the hall and many colored lanterns of the same colors were used as decorations. Music for the ball was furnished by the Kreutz orchestra.

SCOUTS FOLLOW UP CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN

Every Boy to Take Charge of His Own Back Yard and Streets and Alleys Adjoining

What promises to be the most energetic cleanup campaign ever conducted in La Crosse was launched yesterday afternoon by members of Troop 1, Boy Scouts. The campaign is the first of its kind ever held on the north side. Plans for street and back yard renovation were made at the troop meeting Friday evening at the North Presbyterian church.

Work this week will be confined to each boy taking care of his own back and streets and alleys adjoining. The work is expected to keep the boys busy every night after school this week. Next week, the boys will invade other yards, with the permission of the owners and apply the brush. From then on, until the whole north side has been covered, the boys will be needed for the work in the opinion of Troop Leader Harry Spencer.

That the action of the Boy Scouts will be followed by youths not connected with the organization is expected by the backers of the movement.

SUBMARINE OF NEW TYPE OVERTAKES AND SINKS BRITISH SHIP

LONDON, April 6.—A big submarine that dashed through a heavy sea at incredible speed torpedoed and sank the steamer Northlands off Beachy Head, in the English channel. While some of the crew, landed at Deal today, believed the attacking "undersea boat" was the famous "U-12," others believed it was of a newer and far more powerful type.

Word of the sinking of the Northlands was received here only a short time before the crew of the Grimsby trawler Agatha was landed at Blyth, near Newcastle. The Agatha was overhauled and sunk by a submarine in the North sea after a short chase.

The Northlands ignored the first signal from the submarine, commanding her to halt. Her stokers set at work furiously and swinging in zig-zag fashion, she dashed in towards shore. A gale was rolling up high waves in the channel but in a few minutes the submarine was alongside the Northlands and signalled "Abandon your ship."

The boats were lowered and the crew was pulling away when a terrific explosion nearly broke the steamer in two.

"At the same instant," said one of the Northlands' sailors, "her whistle mysteriously broke out in a wailing death shriek that lasted until the waves engulfed her. It was devilish uncanny."

The steamer carried a cargo of iron ore and settled quickly.

Italian Ship Sunk?

ROME, April 6.—A report reached here this afternoon that the steamer Luigi Faroldi, carrying a cargo of coal from Baltimore, was shelled and sunk by a German submarine. The report has not been officially confirmed.

The Luigi Faroldi is an Italian steamer of 4,127 tons. Her port of registry is Genoa. She was built in 1899 and is 360 feet in length.

RUMOR SAYS SPEED WAS THIRTY MILES

Charles Roodie, engineer, and W. Goldman, fireman, on the engine that killed Albert H. Nelson, a peddler, at the Onalaska street crossing of the Northwestern railroad, testified before the inquest held yesterday in the office of Otto M. Schlabaeh, district attorney.

Officially, strict secrecy is maintained as to the nature of the testimony, but it was rumored today that evidence had been given to the effect that the train was moving at the rate of thirty miles an hour. The Onalaska ordinance limits speed to twelve miles an hour.

In order to hear further witnesses, Coroner Tetley continued the hearing until Thursday morning at 9 o'clock. The position of freight cars on the siding, in relation to the ordinance requirements, will be investigated.

YOUNG PEOPLE ENTERTAIN

The Young People's society of the Norwegian Lutheran church, corner of Sixth and Division streets, will be entertained tonight in the church parlors by the Misses Berghild Verket and Alice Steenberg. Rev. Johnson of Spring Grove will deliver an address. Refreshments will be served.

A MEDICINE OF MERIT

A proprietary medicine, like everything else that comes before the public, has to prove its merits. The law of the survival of the fittest applies in this field as in others. The reason for the tremendous success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is because it has been fulfilling a real human need for forty years, so that today thousands of American women owe their health and happiness to the marvelous power of this famous medicine, made from roots and herbs—nature's remedy for woman's ills.

MUSIC FESTIVAL

AT THE NORMAL

Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra Will Appear April 17 and School Chorus to Sing Messiah on 19th

PLAN MATINEE FOR CHILDREN

Famous Soloists Will Appear in Leading Parts of Handel's Great Oratorio

Plans have just been completed for a music festival to be held in the normal auditorium April 17 and 19. It is hoped that this will be the first of a series of annual festivals which will be participated with keen interest by the music loving people of our city. The festival this year will consist of two concerts by the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, Emil Oberholzer, conductor, and the singing of Handel's Messiah by the Normal school Choral society of two hundred voices under the direction of Mr. Cotton.

The orchestra is so well known that there can be little doubt of its appeal to La Crosse people. The personnel of the organization is even higher this year than before, several of the old St. Paul orchestra men having gone over to Mr. Oberholzer's organization. The matinee concert will be of special interest to children as well as grown-ups and the evening concert will be of the regular symphony type. The soloists this year are Mme. Marie Sundelius, soprano, of Boston, and Mr. Albert Lindquist, the well known Chicago tenor. The orchestra concerts will occur Saturday afternoon and evening, April 17.

The following Monday evening the Normal Choral society will sing Handel's famous oratorio, the "Messiah." This organization of two hundred young people has been rehearsing the masterpiece since October. An unique feature of the performance will be the accompanying of all of the choruses by the normal orchestra, which includes some of the best talent in the city. The orchestra, as well as the chorus, is made up entirely of students and faculty members.

The Choral society is especially fortunate in the soloist it has obtained. Miss Anna Holsch will sing the soprano solos, and of course needs no introduction in her home town. Mr. Marion Green, the popular Chicago baritone, will sing the bass solos. Alma Beck of Cincinnati, who sang there with Florence Hinkle, Clarence Whitehill and Evan Williams in the Messiah, will sing the contralto solos, while Mr. B. M. Forsaker, the leading tenor in the Twin Cities, and soloist in the largest Presbyterian church in St. Paul, will sing the tenor parts. The singing of the Messiah also constitutes the opening number of the State Music Teachers' association which meets in La Crosse, April 19, 20 and 21.

SUTTER'S BODY IS SENT TO MADISON

Man Who Fell from Steamboat Last Fall Identified by Friends Through Marks in Clothing

The body of George ("Smiley") Sutter, once popular Madison bartender, the identity of which was made certain yesterday, was today taken to Madison following a message from Joseph Sutter, a brother.

George Sutter either jumped or fell from the top deck of a government steamer on the river November 6, 1914, just as the boat was approaching Isle La Plume to put him off. Sutter had been discharged a few hours prior.

Deck hands on the steamer put off in a boat when they heard a splash in the water, but the body was not found until Saturday, when Frank Latimore and E. W. Powell located it at a point below Genoa, Wis., in the river. Clothing on the few remaining bones furnished identity, and Captain W. A. Thompson, river engineer, sent "Captain White," who knew Sutter, to Genoa to make the identity doubly sure.

Has Friends in Madison.

Sutter gained the title of "Smiley" through a pleasant personality which won him many friends in Madison. For a long time his friends there had not heard from him, until his disappearance from the government steamer. Sutter had been discharged from the government service because he was a heavy drinker.

"Y" WORKERS PLAN PARTY TOMORROW

Upwards of one hundred boys of the Y. M. C. A. are expected to attend the banquet Wednesday evening at 6:30 at the association. The banquet closes the winter schedule of the junior leagues. Rev. J. E. Watson, pastor of the West Avenue Methodist church, will talk on "Clean Speech and Habits." "Clean Sports" will be the address of Prof. F. E. Nurse of the state normal school.

FLOUR NOW SOARS AT TOP OF MARKET

Another sharp decline in the wheat market has brought flour prices in La Crosse back to the record mark today.

Listman Milling company today quotes patents at $7.90 per barrel, the same mark reached a few weeks ago, and the highest since the start of the European war. Straight is quoted at $7.70 per barrel.

Feed prices remain the same.

FACES END OF BLEAK ROMANCE

At last the bloody face of Johnson began to show that he realized the battle in front of him was the acme of his career.

The face of his white wife reflected the feelings of the black fighter. In the same way, when Johnson's confident smile presaged certain victory, she, too, smiled with him. Then, when the battle went past the fifteenth round and Willard still was baffling the champion, Johnson's smile changed to seriousness and with the look came the strange reflection of awe into the now pale face of the girl in the ringside box.

When she was the wife of Jack Johnson, champion, she was a center of attraction. As the wife of plain Jack Johnson, dethroned negro fighter, she would be an outcast and the subject of ostracism. These thoughts, I know, ran through her mind as round by round Willard proved Johnson was not the Johnson of Reno days.

Then came the twentieth round. Into the eyes of Johnson there crept the look which shows when a man is in the last ditch—before the firing squad. Jack Johnson, master of ring craft, conqueror of Jeffries, knew his Waterloo was approaching. He was battling against his master, and thinking now only of the miserable white girl who had left her own race to cast her lot with the glamour of his life. He sent for Promoter Curley.

Curley arrived at the end of the twenty-second round. Johnson leaned from his corner and whispered: "Take my wife to the gate, Jack. I'm going fast and I don't want her to see the finish if I am to be knocked out."

When all that is said against Johnson is tallied in the ledger of life, I want to place to his credit that one act. In the dizzy avalanche of blows showered upon him by Willard, his real thoughts were for his wife and as Curley led her, downcast, discouraged and fearful from the arena she knew the doom of her pitiful romance and sudden life had been sealed.

The end of time for her had arrived.

VILLA READY TO STRIKE BIG BLOW

WASHINGTON, April 6.—That Villa will strike with all his strength within a few hours at Carranza's control of northeastern Mexico seemed certain from state department dispatches received from Eagle Pass, Texas, this afternoon.

Judging from the quarters in which the rival forces were concentrating, the encirclement promised to be between Pedras Negras and Nuevo Laredo.

DE SOTO BANKER DIES

Joseph W. Morelli, prominent business man and banker of De Soto, Wis., died Sunday morning at his home, aged 44 years. He is survived by his widow and four children. The funeral will be held at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

MORE CLOTHING IS NEEDED

Miss Nadia Thomas, general secretary of the Associated Charities, is making another appeal to the people of La Crosse for cast off clothing for the poor. The clothing supply at the successful Associated Charities' store, 226 Main street, started last fall, is low. The organization has been selling clothing to the poor at the cost of handling, included the maintenance of help at the store.

JOHNSON CHANGES PLANS PREPARES QUICK GETAWAY

Dethroned King of Heavies Plans Hurried Return to England as Rumors of Arrest Fly About

HAVANA, April 6.—Jack Johnson, fallen heavyweight champion, suddenly changed his plans this afternoon and made preparations for a quick get-away to England, leaving by way of Jamaica tonight.

Rumors that the negro was about to be arrested at the request of United States government and returned to Chicago on white slave charges were circulated here at about noon. They could not be confirmed.

Before 1 p. m. Johnson's valet and the busy packing his belongings and the negro announced that he would take a night boat. He refused to give any reason for his quick change in plans.

TAKES FALL HUNTING LICENSE OUT TODAY

Peter Lee, Onalaska, holds a record for taking out the first hunting license in La Crosse county for the fall season of 1919, and is one of the earliest in the history of the county to get a hunting permit. Lee says he has ten dogs and three guns and that he is going to get the first duck that flies south when the season opens September 7. He took out his license today.

CIVIL WAR VETERAN DIES

William F. Miller, veteran of the Civil war and a member of Wilson Colwell post, No. 77, G. A. R., died Monday morning at the Soldiers' Home in Milwaukee, after a several weeks' illness following a stroke of paralysis. Mr. Miller was an old time mason contractor of this city. He was born in Philadelphia, September 10, 1848.

He is survived by his widow; two sons, Roy and William; and one sister, Mrs. James A. Trane, all of La Crosse.

The G. A. R. will have charge of the funeral services, which will be held at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon from Miller Brothers' chapel, Rev. J. E. Watson officiating. Interment will be in Oak Grove cemetery.

"Y" MEN HAVE BANQUET

Tentative plans for spring and summer activities in tennis, baseball, track and swimming and cross country runs were talked over last night at the senior banquet held at the Y. M. C. A. The dinner was the conclusion of the regular season of the senior basketball league. Owing to the interest displayed in the game at the association a new league of four teams was formed to play until May 1. Prof. J. R. Moore of the normal school talked briefly on "Clean Sports."

However, the way of the transgressor is very popular.

SEIZE SWEDISH SHIP

COPENHAGEN, April 6.—A Swedish steamer, bound from Gothenburg to England with a cargo of corn, has been seized by a German warship and taken into a German port, according to Stockholm advices received here this afternoon.

MICHIGAN REPUBLICAN

DETROIT, Mich., April 6.—The entire republican state ticket was successful in yesterday's election. Returns still very incomplete today, showed that the vote, except in counties where local option was an issue, was extremely light, but that the republican ticket carried by probably 30,000 majority. The progressive vote was negligible.

The ticket named was as follows: Supreme court justices, A. C. Calvey and M. L. Brooke; university regents, Junius Beal and Frank B. Leland; superintendent of public instruction, Fred L. Keeler; members of the state board of agriculture, William B. Wallace and I. Roy Waterbury; members of the state board of education, Fred A. Jeffers.

ETHEL'S CAPTAIN CRYPTIC

NORFOLK, Va., April 6.—"You won't have me to worry you much longer," Commander Thierichens of the Prinz Eitel Friedrich, told newspapermen today. It was rumored the climax would come Tuesday night. Men on shore leave were called aboard.

George Washington—"Father of His Country"

EVERY AMERICAN knows that without "Immortal Washington our National Independence would have been impossible. Few, however, know that the greatest battle of Washington's life was fought to secure for his countrymen the Constitution of the United States. Almost immediately after the Revolution it seemed that all the great sacrifice of blood and treasure had been in vain. The original thirteen states refused to work in harmony, either in spirit or in law. The new Republic was tottering to its foundations. At this critical period in American history the most brilliant men of each state met in convention and unanimously elected Washington as President—undoubtedly the most momentous gathering of the kind the world has ever known. Here he displayed as great ability as law-maker as he had as a warrior. For months the Fathers of the Republic labored, and finally adopted our present National Law, which forever guarantees Religious, Commercial and Personal Liberty. This was in 1787. Seventy years later Anheuser-Busch established their great institution upon the tenets of the Federal law which Washington did so much to create. Like all of the great men of his time, he was a moderate user of good old barley brews. For three generations Anheuser-Busch have brewed honest malt and hop beers. To-day 7500 people are daily employed to keep pace with the ever-increasing public demand. The great popularity of their famous brand—BUDWEISER—due to quality, purity, mildness and exquisite flavor, has made its sales exceed those of any other beer by millions of bottles.

DRYS WIN IN MICHIGAN

LANSING, Mich., April 6.—A sweeping victory for "dry" forces in Michigan was indicated today when nearly complete returns from sixteen counties which yesterday held local option elections showed the "drys" winner in probably thirteen of them. As a result of the election 254 saloons will be legislated out of existence on May 1.

ROOKIES AND REGULARS

HAVANA.—Fielder Jones stirred up a near-mutiny yesterday when he chased his slow-peds athletes aboard the boat for home just before the big battle. Jones feared the players would have remained a week more if they got caught in the rush to get away. The Federals open in Chicago Saturday.

ST. LOUIS.—Outfielder Bob Bescher of the Giants is on his way from Little Rock to join the Cardinals, according to Manager Higgins of the Cardinals, and Higgins hastened to explain "Bescher's recalcitrance" was actuated by things that cannot be published now.

Throng of Fans Hurrah at News

FLASH—WILLARD WINS ON A KNOCKOUT IN THE TWENTY-SIXTH ROUND.

The word was the spark that sent the crowd in front of the TRIBUNE into pandemonium. The uproar left little doubt as to the temper of the throng who stood for two hours in front of the plant, awaiting patiently each bulletin from Havana.

Then into the office walked Burke, the Willard man who for the last week has been keeping the "force" posted on the progress of Jess and the few chances of the black in the ring with him. But there was no "I told you so" with him, either in speech or expression. He simply beamed with smiles as he said, "The dope was all right, wasn't it?"

"How much did you win on the fight?" some inquirer advanced. "Oh, just a few dollars and a couple of boxes of cigars," he replied as though a Johnson-Willard fight were a weekly occurrence. But he was mighty good-natured.

"HIGH" TRACK MEN PLAN BUSY SEASON

La Crosse high school track men started their annual grind last night when Coach Horne took the squad out onto the campus. Only light work was required of the men, as it is only the beginning of the season. If the turnout last night can be taken as a sign, this year high school will have a record breaking team. The squad which is large is well balanced and has good men in every line of outdoor sports.

Preparation for the inter-class meet is now being made. Much competition is being shown and the result of the meet cannot be predicted with any certainty, as all the teams are strong.

LA CROSSE CITY BOWLING LEAGUE ENDS THIS WEEK

Final Rolling of the Local League Starts Tonight with Nelsons-Lotus Match

GUNDS PROSPECTIVE CHAMPS

Brewers Remain in Lead with Nelsons Trailing; Paulson Leads Individual Averages

With the Gunds in the lead by four and one-half games over the Nelsons, the last week's rolling in the La Crosse City Bowling League begins tonight, the Nelsons and the Lotus club hooking up for the evening. A few postponed games will also be rolled either this week or next.

Should the Nelsons win three games with the Lotus club tonight, besides their three postponed games, and should the Gunds lose their three games Thursday with the La Crosse club, the two teams would be tied for first place. Such an event, however, is improbable as the La Crosse club at present is at the foot of the column. Only on a few occasions have teams in the league taken three straight games from any team.

Oscar Paulson and A. S. Ulrich, both members of the Gunds, are tied in individual averages with 155. John Williams and A. W. Mekvold are tied for second place with 142. Lynn Gullickson of the Nelsons is next in line with 141.

WILLARD IS HAPPY LIKE A SCHOOLBOY WITH HEAVY TITLE

New King of the Ring Is Up Early Today for a Jaunt Around Havana

JOHNSON ASKS CREDIT FOR GO

"I Gave It to Jeffries at Reno, Now Give It to Me," the Dethroned Champ Asks

BY BARRY FARIS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
HAVANNA, April 6.—Happy, like a schoolboy with a new slate. That was the evident disposition today of Jess Willard, new—and white—champion world's heavyweight.

The new king of the ring was up early. He roamed around the streets the center of a jostling, admiring throng. The temperamental Cubans went into raptures of demonstration.

Willard Unscratched
Willard was absolutely unharmed. Only a few scratches were the evidences of his winning battle. Jack Johnson, dethroned champion, on the other hand, was sore in mind and body. His ebony frame was wracked with pain from Willard's pummeling.

But the big black, winding yet from the terrific body punches of the cowboy champion, showed sportsmanship in seeking recognition for a same, though losing fight. "Give me what credit is due," Johnson told me. "No other heavyweight in the world could have stood out Willard for twenty-six rounds. I gave it to Jeffries for gamely taking a beating from me at Reno; now give it to me."

Tom Jones Is Power
Tom Jones, Willard's manager, shared today in the felicitations over the wrestling of the big prize of fistiana from the negro. He deserves the greatest credit for his part in returning the championship to the white race.

Willard is the third champion developed by Jones. Billy Papke and Ad Wolgast rose to the front rank under Jones' tutelage. I learned today how Jones, despite disappointments and reverses, put Willard on his present pedestal. It cost him $34,000 during the last three years alone. The contract for Jones' management called for but $250. Now the contract to both is worth a fortune.

Once Rough Now Polished
Jones has been the experienced hand which guided Willard and fashioned him into the skilled offensive and defensive fighter which utterly amazed many spectators yesterday. Willard has been regarded a clumsy, though husky, novice. Jones was also the master mind which planned and directed the whole course of battle, with Willard minutely following instructions and never being in danger at any stage of the fighting.

Willard and Jones today began to taste the first fruits of this financial harvest ahead. Cablegrams of cheering vaudeville engagements showered upon the new champion. Willard planned to leave here today or tomorrow for Key West and go direct to New York for a vaudeville engagement.

Johnson planned to leave today for Martinique, to take a steamer for France, where he and his white wife expect to make their home. Johnson was not disturbed by reports that he might be arrested, declaring that he was safe while in Cuba or on the high seas.

QUIT MEAT WHEN KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a glass of Salts if your Back hurts or Bladder troubles you

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

HITTING the high places of public favor—the way news of "Right-Cut," the Real Tobacco Chew, is getting around from friend to friend.

A little chew of pure, rich, mellow tobacco—cut fine, short shred—seasoned and sweetened just enough, cuts out so much of the grinding and spitting.

Take a very small chew—less than one-quarter the old size. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just nibble on it until you feel the strength chew that suits you. Tuck it away. Then let it rest. See how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is the Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

It is a ready chew, cut fine and short shred so that you won't have to grind on it with your teeth. Grinding on ordinary candied tobacco makes you spit too much.

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

OLD BLACK MAMMY AT HOME THOUGHT JACK JUST COULDN'T LOSE

BY JAMES O'DEA
(Written for the United Press.)
CHICAGO, April 6.—Down at 3511 Wabash avenue, in the heart of Chicago's famed black belt, there is a little old woman who doesn't fully understand that she is no longer the mother of a champion. Just couldn't be, you know, that her boy was knocked out—there was something wrong. So patiently she sat up most of the night waiting for a cable from her "boy" that would explain the whole thing. For she would laugh at those white folks who besieged her door. But never came. She was Mrs. Tina Johnson, Jack Johnson's black mammy.

Jack Reassures Family
Jack's sister spoke for the family. "No," she said, "we won't tell till we hear from Jack. I know he has an explanation, for it was Saturday that he wired us to get down the family jewels on him. You know that Jack knows something when he wires his old mother this way. There will be a lot of news about this fight before many hours."

Little Rioting
There was little rioting in the dark belt. The negroes for the part took it philosophically. Here and there were drunken brawls between whites and blacks, but they were rare. But there is a hand of crepe throughout the black belt that is darker than any of its dusky tizens.

They have lost their place in the sun.

declaring that he was safe while in Cuba or on the high seas.

Emmett is on the Map
EMMETT, Kan., April 6.—Having been placed on the map by a mighty about boxing until he left his wallow by Jess Willard, that won him the world's championship, all work was suspended today while the town folks recalled every incident in the life of their hero.

As the village sees it, the nearest Willard ever came to being a cowboy, or to run he just has to be good as was the fact that he was an expert.

DREADED TYPHUS FEVER STRIKES DOWN AMERICAN DOCTOR WHO HAD CHARGE OF ALL HOSPITAL WORK IN SERBIAN CAPITAL

Top, Dr. Ryan (arrow) dressing wounds of Serbian soldier in Belgrade hospital.

Word has just been received in this country that Dr. Edward W. Ryan, of the American Red Cross, has been stricken with typhus fever in Belgrade, Serbia. On November 25 last, Dr. Ryan was placed in charge of the hospital work in Belgrade. This included the care of five army hospitals, with about forty buildings. He had under his direction nine Serbian doctors and 150 nurses, who were caring for about 1,200 patients.
